Final Bulletins

Skis in Election

HULL, Que. (CP)—Returning Officer R. J. T. Therien traveled by skis and snowmobile to deliver ballot boxes and other election necessities to snowbound mountain regions of Wright constituency in preparation for the Dominion election tomorrow; he reported on his return from Maniwaki this afternoon.

B.C. Teachers Meet

VANCOUVER (CP)—School teachers from all parts of the province registered here today for the 24th annual meeting of the British Columbia Teachers' Federation.

Business sessions will begin tonight, when reports of officers and of various standing committees will be ready. The convention will wind up Thursday.

Party Ousts Man

WELLINGTON (CP Reuters)—The New Zealand Labor Party in conference here today expelled John A. Lee, left-wing leader.

Yesterday Finance Minister Walter Nash revoked Mr. Lee's appointment as parliamentary secretary to the ministry of finance, explaining his writings "conveyed impression incompatible with the mutual trust and loyalty essential between those working in close co-operation."

Snow Blocks Roads

MONCTON, N.B. (CP)—Many roads remained blocked this afternoon following a blizzard that swept New Brunswick Saturday and it was feared transportation difficulties would be reflected in a reduced rural vote in the Dominion election tomorrow.

Mercy Flight

EDMONTON (CP)—A mercy flight by an Edmonton pilot was under way today in northern British Columbia. Pilot Alex Dame of Yukon Southern Air Transport was en route from Fort St. John to Fort Grahame to pick up a sick Indian and fly him to Prince George. Dame will travel about 400 miles on the trip.

Honorary Degrees

EDMONTON (CP)—Honorary degrees of doctor of divinity will be conferred on four Alberta ministers at the forthcoming convocation of St. Stephen's College April 2. Ministers who will receive the degree are Rev. M. S. Kerr, Camrose; Rev. J. M. Pritchard, Lethbridge; Rev. D. H. Telfer, Calgary, and Rev. E. T. Scragg, Edmonton.

Planes Busy at Front

PARIS (CP-Havas)—Tonight's French high command communique: "There was local artillery action at various points on the front and infantry rifle fire along the Rhine. The air forces of both sides were active."

HIT-AND-RUN CAR BLAMED FOR DEATH

Police of Vancouver Island today joined forces in a search for a hit-and-run driver, believed to have knocked down and killed Herman Carlson, Ladysmith, as he walked towards his home along the Island Highway.

Carlson was found at 4.30 a.m. Sunday on the side of the road, quarter of a mile north of Ladysmith and about a mile from his home.

He was found by Leo Simila, Ladysmith, and Joseph Sarlund, Ladysmith, who were driving along the highway and noticed his inert form at the roadside.

A post-mortem examination at Nanaimo this morning, conducted by Dr. T. C. Harold, Ladysmith, indicated death was due to a lung puncture caused by the fracture of several ribs. There were also several cuts and bruises about the scalp and face.

B.C. Police at Nanaimo said their investigations had set the time of the accident between 4.15 and 4.30.

Lady Tweedsmuir Leaves

OTTAWA (CP)—Lady Tweedsmuir will leave Ottawa tonight, bound for an unnamed port and a ship which will carry her home to England.

In keeping with the wishes of the widow of the Governor-General that her departure be as quiet and private as possible, not even members of her household staff will accompany her to the station, nor will the public be permitted to see her leave.

Scandinavia Trade Of Nazis Checked By British Navy

LONDON (CP) — Britain's warships scoured Germany's North Sea shipping lanes today in an effort to strangle Nazi trade with Scandinavia.

Pushing her sea blockade farther from home shores, Britain counted three blows against Germany's merchant marine in the mine-infested waters of the eastern North Sea.

Two German cargo carriers became the war's first merchantman victims of British submarines during the Easter holidays. They were the coal-laden freighter Edmund Hugo Stinnes, 2,189 tons, sent to the bottom by shell fire near where a torpedo earlier had sunk the 4,497-ton ore carrier Heddernheim.

The Stinnes, which had left Hamburg for Copenhagen, had received home radio orders to dodge back into Espjerg, Denmark. The ship had almost reached Skagen, northern Denmark, at the time, but it turned back and was caught by a British submarine Saturday night.

DRIVEN ASHORE

Another victim of the cat-and-mouse watch the British Admiralty has posted along the western shores of Denmark and Norway was the 5,000-ton Ostpreussen, run aground yesterday with a cargo of coke after three days of harried cruising off the western Danish coast to dodge British warships.

The Ostpreussen, bound for Sweden, had been ordered to double back to Espjerg, to lie there out of reach of British submarines. Hugging the rugged shore to escape detection, she struck a rock and, with nine feet of water in her hold, was beached on the Jutland coast. The crew remained aboard.

On the debit side, the Admiralty acknowledged one casualty—the 210-ton naval trawler Loch Assater, which was sunk by a mine off the northern Scottish coast. The Air Ministry disclosed the loss of a British plane on a night reconnoitring mission over Germany.

NORWAY PROTESTS

Norway's minister to London made complaints to Britain alleging infringement of Norwegian neutrality during recent days. There was no immediate British comment.

An authoritative source said Norway's complaints referred in the main to aircraft flights, but that no specific instances were cited.

In Oslo, the Norwegian admiralty said there had been at least two instances of trespassing by British warships and a possible third was being investigated.

But the London Daily Mail observed neutrals already had been "warned," particularly by Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty, "that they are not playing the game and the navy is only trying to stop the 'leaks' and make our own blockade 100 per cent effective."

Answering Norway's previous protest in the Altmark case, when a British destroyer forced the German prison vessel aground on the Norwegian coast, Prime Minister Chamberlain accused Norway's government of "complete indifference as to the use which might be made of their territorial waters by the German fleet."

Six survivors of the Danish ships Viking and Bothal reported on arrival at an east Scottish port today that 30 men were killed when the two ships were torpedoed by German submarines in the North Sea last Thursday. The seamen said the U-boat gave them no time to launch lifeboats. Some clung to floating wreckage 48 hours before being picked up.

SHIPS MASSING

COPENHAGEN (AP)—British warcraft in imposing force hovered on the fringe of Scandinavian territorial waters today, apparently under orders to stalk or pounce on every German merchant ship en route to or from the blockaded Reich.

With three German ships knocked out in the past four days of intensified British pressure on Germany's outermost Scandinavian lifeline, Norway and Denmark again felt the sharp squeeze of unceasing war at sea.

Roosevelt Recuperates

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Roosevelt, after a restful week-end, was said by his physician today to be "very much improved," but still taking precautions against the cold that has been troubling him for a fortnight.

MORE SUPPORT GIVEN REYNAUD

PARIS (AP)—Premier Paul Reynaud's office announced he would make an address to the nation by radio tomorrow evening at 8 (noon, P.S.T.).

M. Reynaud received Raffaele Guariglia, Italian ambassador to France. Sources close to the foreign office said the meeting was "significant" because France's new premier-foreign minister never before had talked privately with the Italian envoy. There was no statement of what they discussed.

The official journal disclosed, meanwhile, that switches by several deputies had changed the new government's shaky, one-vote absolute majority Friday, on a vote of confidence in the Chamber of Deputies, to a margin of 17.

With some deputies and previously critical sections of the rightist press rallying to his support, the Premier apparently was gaining strength for his "fight and win" government.

No Majority Yet in Alberta

EDMONTON (CP)—Two more members were elected today to the Alberta Legislature, but the standing between the Social Credit Party and the Independent was changed only slightly.

Social Credit hopes received a boost with the election of E. O. Duke, a member of the last House, by a second count in Pincher Creek-Crowsnest. His victory raised the total of Social Crediters elected to 21, eight short of the number necessary to form a government.

Independents, the amalgamaiton of Liberals, Conservatives and Unity Movement candidates, elected their 15th member with the concession of Peace River to E. J. Martin. With only three polls to hear from, Martin led his one opponent, W. J. Lampley, Social Credit, by 150. Lampley was a member of the last House.

Twenty-one of the 57 legislative seats remain in doubt. Social Credit lead in 16, Independents in four and Labor in one.

Duke gained his victory in Pincher Creek-Crowsnest after Enoch Williams, Labor, was eliminated. When the second choices on Williams' 1,020 ballots were distributed between the Social Credit candidate and C. J. Thompkins, Independent, Duke's original lead of 227 was cut to 211. Williams lost his deposit by 56 votes.

Meanwhile, preparations neared completion for the official and second counting of ballots in a number of other rural ridings where first counts were not decisive. In northern Alberta snow-blocked roads have delayed gathering of the ballot boxes, a procedure necessary prior to the official count.

In other ridings, returning officers reported they would not start their official counts until tomorrow morning.

For Voters

For the convenience of voters during polling hours, 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. tomorrow, R. W. Mayhew has installed the following public telephone services:

For information, phone E 8021, or E 2733.

For transportation to polls, phone G 8017, or G 8018.

Mauretania Nears Panama Bound for Pacific

CRISTOBAL, C.Z. (AP)—The 35,739-ton British liner Mauretania, which slipped out of New York on a mysterious journey five days ago, is expected by shipping circles to appear at the Panama Canal before midnight tonight.

The ship, which sailed from New York amid rumors she would be used as a troopship to transport soldiers from Australia, is expected to transit the canal on Tuesday.

Local agents of the Cunard-White Star Line, operators of the vessel, declined to give out information regarding the Mauretania's movements.

The Mauretania was expected to steam through the canal to the Pacific Ocean as soon as possible, with officials measuring the vessel during transit instead of while docked as usual.

The Mauretania, an "all-electric" ship which normally carries 1,500 passengers, slipped out of New York harbor last Wednesday night, and was followed by the 81,235-ton Queen Mary on the following day.

Both vessels sailed under sealed orders. Both departed on their wartime mission painted a dull grey to help hide their movements.

Woman Spy Taken Off Ship

MADRID (AP)—A French destroyer, tentatively identified as the Forbin, was reported today to have halted the Portuguese steamship Lima off Lisbon and removed a German woman passenger, Lola Schroeter, 20, said to be wanted in France on espionage charges.

Planes for Training

FORT ERIE, Ont. (CP)—First of 404 Fleet Advance trainers of a contract recently awarded the Fleet Corporation by the federal Department of Transport have been assembled and will be delivered to the Royal Canadian Air Force tomorrow, according to General Manager W. E. Diesher. The planes being assembled here will be delivered to points from coast to coast for R.C.A.F. training.

Portrait on Torpedo

LONDON (CP)—A new German aerial torpedo — decorated with a portrait of Prime Minister Chamberlain with his umbrella — was found today on a beach near Bridlington, Yorkshire. Admiralty experts were called to examine it. The torpedo is about 12 feet long, with two propellers at the tail. It is believed to be as dangerous as a floating mine after its motive power in exhausted.

Tap Liquor Store For Easter Liquor

Some of the boys around Merritt wanted liquor to finish off their Easter holiday. So they tapped the government liquor store, boring holes in a panel of the rear door and knocking out the piece of wood with an ax.

As a result, Liquor Vendor Alf Sowerby, who lives with his family in an apartment above the store, is spending his Easter Monday taking stock to find just how much the invaders got away with. He'll report to Victoria tomorrow.

Easter Garden

In this bit of the A. S. Bleakney garden at the corner of Newport and Island Road, spring flowers in full bloom with all their fragrance and color, nestle below a miniature grove of twisted oaks. A feature of this blanket of bloom are the wild lilies.

Sun Ions Bombard Earth; Block Communications

Communications were returning slowly to normal today after one of the worst electrical disturbances ever to hit the earth as a result of sun-spot activity. Radio short wave communications to Europe still were hampered by the magnetic storm. Contacts were being maintained on very low frequency.

A tornado-like solar disturbance, local scientists said, whipped up huge spots on the sun from which a stream of electrical particles emanated, riddling the earth's atmosphere and virtually isolating this continent from the rest of the world for several hours yesterday.

The phenomenon affected land telegraphs and telephones, undersea cables, the wireless telephone from New York to London, Paris and Rome, short wave relays and even long wave radio to a lesser extent.

For hours the crippling blow delayed movement of thousands of Easter messages via telegraph.

Capping the day-long astrophysical warfare was a display of "northern lights"—the Aurora Borealis—which gave additional support to the theory the heavenly fireworks are a manifestion of sunspots. In the early evening here it seemed as though great searchlights were sweeping the northern skies.

Radio listeners who expected to hear news broadcasts from Europe's war zone were disappointed as radio technicians tried frantically to communicate with correspondents in the main centres there. Several good feature musical programs also failed to come through from New York and there was considerable interference at night.

RUMORS OF NEW WEAPON

There were rumors that a new weapon for "jamming" radio between the warring nations and North America had been invented, and that something big was going on "over there."

The National Broadcasting Company rerouted some of its programs to avoid the electrical disturbance, which caused reception to "fade" periodically for a few seconds.

The Columbia Broadcasting System reported European short-wave broadcasts were almost completely blanked out.

"This is the first time that the Columbia short-wave listening station has ever encountered conditions as bad as these," officials said.

For four hours and 10 minutes, starting at 10.30 a.m. E.S.T. (7.30 a.m. P.S.T.), the Associated Press network of 285,000 miles of leased wires was out of use except in a 500-mile radius around New York City.

The American Telephone and Telegraph Co. besides being cut off entirely from Europe for hours, reported domestic telegraph service disrupted intermittently as far west as Omaha, Kansas City and Dallas. Western Union said the disturbance went as far west as Denver. Telephone service remained normal.

While long-wave radio broadcasting systems reported little trouble, short-wave communication was wiped out, except for short distances.

The Associated Press 10,000-mile wirephoto network, over which pictures are transmitted on telephone wires, went out of order. At one time yesterday afternoon Winnipeg, one of the vulnerable spots to forces from the magnetic pole, was completely isolated from the rest of the country except for long-wave radio transmission. Telephone, Morse and short-wave radio circuits sputtered to a standstill. As fast as electrical experts could replace them, fuses were blown out and insulators were burned out.

Teletype communications of the Canadian Press between Winnipeg and the Pacific coast were broken down frequently by the electrical charges. The northern lights, usually visible when such disturbances occur, could not be seen dancing in the heavens but technicians felt their presence more than for a number of years.

STRONG EARTH CURRENTS

Rural communities in Manitoba were hit hard by the strong earth currents. Country telephone switchboards were reduced almost to uselessness in many districts. Strength of the earth currents was recorded as high as 50 volts in telephone lines having out insulation and "repeaters"—devices transferring signals from one wire to another in long hook ups.

Officials at the Dominion Astrophysical Observatory on Little Saanich Mountain explained the phenomenon as being caused by solar tornadoes, or sunspots, out of whose centres are thrown ions or electrical particles at velocities of about 20,000 miles per second. These particles bombard the earth, after traversing millions of miles of space, and cause disturbance of the magnetic field which surrounds this planet. This, in turn, affects radio and telegraphic communication.

Auroral lights are formed at altitudes which vary from 30 miles to 200 miles, where conditions of pressures and temperatures are similar to those in a discharge or vacuum tube used in a physicist's laboratory. Gases such as krypton nitrogen and neon are prevalent to a certain extent, and as these gases are bombarded with the ions or electrical particles from the sun, they are charged with electrical energy and the aurora borealis is formed. A similar explanation is necessary to explain the working of the modern neon light signs. Electricity is passed through gases causing them to glow.

Director William Barton of the Hayden Planetarium said that the earth deflects the stream of electrical charges, by magnetic force, to the north and South Poles, and that other charges traveling at right angles, conflict with them. The force is so strong that it will sometimes reverse the direction of a circuit.

PROFOUND DISTURBANCES

Two of the world's leading authorities on terrestrial magnetism, Dr. Charles G. Abbott, secretary to the Smithsonian Institution, and Dr. John Fleming, chief of the Carnegie Institute's department of terrestrial magnetism, ascribed the "earth currents" to a profound disturbance ou the sun.

"Such a disturbance accompanied by explosion of gases, sets up whirls of fire which inevitably affect magnetism in the earth, causing magnetic storms, which in turn knock out of kilter the normal lines of magnetism between the North and South Poles," said Fleming.

Fleming said such disturbances were "not infrequent," although yesterday's magnetic storm "must have been very violent because it reached the temperate zone." He explained that these magnetic storms are always most violent at the poles, diminishing in intensity as the equator is approached.

"Sometimes," he said, "in the regions around the poles, these storms become so violent that true-north on the compass will be deflected as much as 30 degrees in a few minutes."

SKIERS SNOWBOUND

MONTREAL—Some 7,000 skiers who went to the Laurentians for over the Easter holidays were stranded in trains last night, most of them not reaching the city until this morning. Heavy snowfall up-country blocked special trains. Railway companies fed the skiers so far as they had food for them.

Outside of Ottawa more than 1,000 skiers were stranded in special trains caught in snow storms and did not get back to the city for many hours.

5 Suggested As War Cabinet In Great Britain

LONDON (CP) — Prime Minister Chamberlain kept his own counsel over Easter week-end concerning expected changes in his cabinet, but some speculation today predicted a "war cabinet" of five members will be named.

The Star quoted "well-informed political circles" as saying such a group would be composed of the Prime Minister, Foreign Secretary Viscount Halifax, Sir John Simon, Chancellor of the Exchequer, Sir Samuel Hoare, Lord Privy Seal, and Winston Churchill, First Lord of the Admiralty.

Viscount Trenchard was mentioned as possible successor to Sir Kingsley Wood as air secretary.

The Star said Mr. Chamberlain wants the Labor party represented in his cabinet and that the party at its conference May 13 may be asked to approve the entry of Clement Attlee or Herbert Morrison into the government.

Among the ministers "expected to be shifted or dropped" in the Star's list are Supply Minister Leslie Burgin; Euan Wallace, transport; and Geoffrey Lloyd, mines. The last two were blamed for a muddle in the coal industry which resulted in a fuel shortage that has not yet been remedied.

Australia Labor Group Opposes War

SYDNEY, Australia (CP)—The New South Wales Labor conference, acting against advice of state political leaders, yesterday voted 195 to 88 against Australian participation in any war overseas or extension of the present war into a conflict against Soviet Russia.

Some speakers described the Allied war against Germany as caused by "British Imperialistic capitalists."

The resolution passed by the conference in effect demands immediate peace at any price.

Sixty members of the Australian forces invaded the conference during the evening and demanded who the Communists were responsible for the "Australian-hands-of-Russia" note in the resolution.

Moderate Labor leaders agreed the policy voted by the conference was contrary to the Federal Labor viewpoint and the viewpoint of labor throughout the Empire.

They said such a stand would mean a certain defeat of Labor at the elections this year.

BRITISH UNION WANTS WAR ENDED

BIRMINGHAM, Eng. (CP)—A conference of the National Union of Shop Assistants, Warehousemen and Clerks voted 86 to 57 today in favor of ending the war and for ousting the Chamberlain government. The resolution charges that it is an imperialist war for the defence of French and British colonies.

"We are told this is a war to end aggression," declared the author of the resolution, Miss M. Johns of London. "This comes from the British capitalist class which has held down India by force and violence and shot down strike pickets in the West Indies, which has oppressed, starved and exploited negro workers in Africa and is still carrying on aggression against Ireland."

Maxton Laborites Rap War Measures

NOTTINGHAM, Eng. (CP)—The Independent Labor Party, in annual conference here, adopted a wartime program today expressing opposition to all emergency powers which restrict workers' organizations and freedom of speech and press.

The program also opposes a political truce with the Chamberlain government or an industrial truce with employers.

James Maxton, Scottish member of Parliament, is leader of the Independent Labor Party, a small group advocating more direct and definite action toward "Socialism in our time." It holds three seats in the House of Commons.

Nation Prepares To Mark Ballots As Campaign Ends

By the Canadian Press

Canada's wartime election campaign today moved swiftly toward its finale and the curtain will ring down tonight on the political drama staged before the voters of the nation during the past eight weeks. Tomorrow the electorate will go to the polls to choose the government that will carry on the war administration.

An active week-end brought the campaign to a climax with Prime Minister Mackenzie King, the Conservative leader, Hon. R. J. Manion, and J. S. Woodsworth, Co-operative Commonwealth Federation leader, speaking Saturday as well as five cabinet ministers and the Ontario Conservative leader, Lt.-Col. George A. Drew.

Mr. King will make his final speech in Ottawa tonight.

Dr. Manion, who made his last campaign speech at Fort William, now is returning to Ottawa to vote in the capital.

There are 6,487,000 civilians on the voters' list and entitled to cast ballots in their choice of the candidates seeking the 245 seats in the Commons. It is estimated probably 75 per cent will vote.

In the 1935 election 4,452,675 ballots were cast.

Only the Liberals and Conservatives have sufficient nominees for a majority.

240 LIBERALS

Liberals nominated 240, while four Liberal-Progressives received the endorsement of the administration.

Conservatives nominated 213, but they submerged the old party tag and are running as candidates supporting the National government proposed by Dr. Manion.

The Co-operative Commonwealth Federation has 96 in the field and would not have a majority if every candidate was elected.

Social Credit, with 15 seats in the last House, also submerged the party tag for federal purposes and adopted the New Democracy of Hon. W. D. Herridge. They have 28 candidates.

Liberals came into power in 1935 with 180 members in the House of Commons, the greatest majority ever given a political party in Canada.

Record Vote Predicted Here

With 35,390 people eligible to cast ballots the vote in tomorrow's federal election in the Greater Victoria area will be the largest ever recorded, it was predicted today by election officials.

Victorians will vote in 137 different polling stations distributed among the 134 precincts into which the riding is divided. In three precincts the number of registered voters exceeded the limit of 350 so they were split.

The Victoria candidates are: Robert W. Mayhew, Liberal; Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, Conservative, and Kenneth McAllister, C.C.F.

The Nanaimo candidates are: Alan Chambers, Liberal; Frank S. Cunliffe, Conservative; Ronald Grantham, C.C.F.; Major A. H. Jukes, New Democracy, and W. F. Povah, Independent.

Polls will open at 8 in the morning and close at 6 in the evening. All employees are entitled to two hours off from their work to go to the polls.

First returns of the local contest will be available around 6.45, it was expected. Under the precinct system each polling station will complete counting before giving returns. The first bulletin will be the result of the advance poll in which 33 votes were cast.

The Times will collect the local results and will provide a window bulletin and telephone service.

Under the new rule which prevents release of national returns until voting is completed here the Eastern results will be made public at once, after 6. It is expected at that time a good idea will be possible of the way the east has gone. The Maritime polls close four hours earlier than in British Columbia and the big eastern provinces three hours earlier.

Except for final rallies of party workers today the campaign in Victoria ended Saturday night when all candidates were heard. In the Nanaimo riding both Conservative and C.C.F. nominees will make their last appeals tonight in Nanaimo City.

Sun Smiles Here For Easter But East Snowbound

While other parts of the continent shivered yesterday and the women wore fur coats over their Easter ensembles, Victoria enjoyed a warm sun and brilliant blue sky that called out thousands of people, to church in the morning and on pleasure jaunts in the afternoon.

It was a perfect day for the Easter parade. The ladies were able to don their new outfits with no worry about rain or chill winds.

From early morning, when the first worshippers turned out to the Mount Tolmie sunrise service and to services at the Anglican and Roman Catholic churches there was a steady stream to all the churches. Services in the evening were also largely attended.

The exodus to the country and the golf links started also early in the morning. Girls in slacks and sweaters went hiking and bicycling. Families were bundled into motor cars and drove miles. The highways were crowded. The hardier persons went swimming at Thetis and other lakes.

Those fond of the more leisurely life stayed home, sat in the sun on their porches, gardened a bit, or went walking in Beacon Hill Park, now in the first flush of its annual spring beauty, or the other parks.

HARD TO BELIEVE

Victorians could hardly believe reports they heard over the radio about snow and wind and storms in other parts of Canada and the United States.

A Canadian Press report today said eastern Canada shivered through the coldest and stormiest Easter in years, and Easter parades were definitely off, as new bonnets were left at home in their boxes.

So severe were storms in Ontario and Quebec that authorities reported blocked rural roads and huge snowdrifts probably would hinder balloting in the general election tomorrow. The blizzard also covered the Maritimes, with political rallies in Nova Scotia suffering because of deep snow during the week-end.

Snow fell for the eighth consecutive day in Edmonton, bringing the total fall for the week up to 14 inches. Bright sunshine and a temperature of 19 degrees—comparatively mild after the recent cold spell—brought women out in Winnipeg in their light spring outfits.

Defence Minister Rogers had to travel by horse and sleigh to reach Kingston from a political meeting in Enterprise, Ont.

An estimated 7,000 skiers were marooned in the Laurentian Mountains district Saturday night as 16 incoming trains were stopped.

On the Canadian Pacific line, two snowploughs were derailed near Ste. Rose, 13 miles north of Montreal, holding up 12 Montreal-bound ski specials with about 6,000 passengers aboard.

The other blockage was reported on the C.N.R. line near La-Fresniere, where a single plough was unable to break through the high drifts, built up by a two-day gale. Four trains from St. Ermi, with about 1,000 passengers aboard, were held up.

In both cases, skiers were provided with food while they waited for emergency crews to clear the track.

OTTAWANS DELAYED

Hundreds of skiers from Ottawa were marooned in the Gatineau Hills several hours yesterday as snow-blocked roads, piled high with drifts, halted their return to the capital.

TWEEDSMUIR WILL FILED IN SCOTLAND

EDINBURGH (CP)—The will of the late Lord Tweedsmuir, containing only one bequest of a public nature, was lodged at the register house here today. The amount of the estate was not given.

It was signed "John Buchan," and dated July, 1927, at Ardura on the Island of Mull. The butler, cook and housemaid at Elsfield Manor, Oxfordshire, were witnesses.

Lord Tweedsmuir directed his trustees, one of whom is a brother, Walter Buchan, town clerk of Peebles, to give the National Library of Scotland "all books in my library dealing with the Marquis of Montrose which the National Library may desire."

His authoritative biography of Montrose was published in 1928.

Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada since 1935, died at Montreal last February 11.

Cassidy Urges Unity

"Canada, since the Statute of Westminster of 1937 is left to decide for itself what course it will take in the event of an imperial war," said Robert Cassidy, K.C., veteran constitutionalist today. "Hertzog in South Africa demanded a resolution that South Africa would be neutral, but that motion was defeated by our old-time foe and present imperialist patriot Smuts.

"The principle of the British constitution is to concentrate power and responsibility in one man, the Premier, whose duty it is to secure unity by discarding ministers who disagree with him on any issue.

"The theory of the opposition is that because of the war, Mackenzie King should strengthen his position by taking his avowed enemies into his cabinet. An attack has been made upon his government by resolutions passed in the Ontario Legislature by Premier Hepburn. The impropriety and unconstitutionality of such attacks is obvious. The war situation has not changed a whit since the King's broadcast of September 3. He fully recognized that there is no hope for any policy of appeasement or anything other than a fight to a finish with Hitler and his bandit associates for all we hold dear. This is no time for recriminations or playing politics or dealing with the past."

I.R.A. READY TO ACT

DUBLIN (AP) — A sharp rebuff to Prime Minister Eamon de Valera's urging that Irish unity come peaceably was seen today in Belfast reports that the Irish Republican Army there was ready "for armed intervention on both sides of the border."

The Prime Minister, who advocates the inclusion of Northern Ireland (Ulster) in Ireland (Eire) by legislative action, broadcast his anti-violence message yesterday, 24th anniversary of the Easter rebellion.

In Belfast, northern Ireland, members of the outlawed I.R.A. were reported to have met and read a proclamation from the secret Dublin headquarters saying "the time may shortly be arriving for armed intervention."

WOMEN CANDIDATES

To the Editor:—Mrs. Alice McGregor bemoans the fact that the two major political parties nominated not one woman candidate in the present election; she says there are only eight women candidates up in all Canada.

Since politics have to do with our national housekeeping, surely Mrs. McGregor is right. Who, I ask you, are more capable than our women to have at least an equal part in this work with the men of our nation? The trouble is that, though women have the franchise, they have little knowledge yet of how to use it, and indeed little interest in anything political. The reason for this may easily be that Canadian women are not yet much beyond the status given them under Nazilism in Germany, where Hitler assigned the work of women to be largely kochen, kirche and kinder (cooking, church and children).

We recognize our married woman as a kept woman, that is, she earns her living by becoming the wife of some potential earner, or possessor, of money, accepting the position for life, for better or for worse, children or no children, and as such she is not the economic equal of the man. How, then, can she expect to be his political equal, or even have a look-in on politics? Only by the grace of God was she lucky enough to have got the right to vote. Economic freedom and equality in greater measure must be the next step forward for her; but then, what man among us has yet obtained economic freedom or equality? That, too, lies in future development.

(Mrs.) JANE MONTGOMERY.

A VOTER FROM SAANICH

To the Editor:—I don't know much about Mr. Chambers beyond he is a very fine young man, such as we need instead of some of these old men. Nor have I had the privilege of hearing him as yet this time. But what I heard and saw of him last time I was very impressed and trust this time he will have better success, though he has not given the older people a square deal, and it was they who worked hard and faithfully for him last time.

C. WILLIAMS.

NO COMPROMISE

To the Editor:—Mr. Mackenzie King's complete sincerity in the cause for which we are fighting was demonstrated when he announced the calling of Parliament, brought together immediately for the purpose to endorse the resolution for Canada's entry in support of Great Britain and France into the war. The Prime Minister declared that if this resolution was rejected he would resign.

POLITICAL PROVOCATEURS

To the Editor:—There are two types of political agents provocateurs in Canada. Those who repeatedly attempt to lead the people into expressions of disloyalty, so that the people, so led, will finally be arrested, as nothing remains static; and the other type of agent provocateur who rams so-called patriotism down the throats of people who are not in a position publicly to protest, no matter what may be their private opinions to which they are fully entitled, thus generating a natural resentment against "patriotism."

Agents provocateurs in Canada are working for Mussolini; not for Hitler.

In Monday's Times Mr. Ronald Grantham says, "In my opinion the people of Canada do not want a greater war effort." How delighted Mussolini would be to hear this statement. Ronald Grantham also says, "We must not blindly follow the ruling classes of Britain, who have sacrificed the real interests of the people of Britain and the rest of the world." This statement puts Britain in the wrong and Mussolini in the right.

As for the British ruling classes, they are of all types; splendid types, many of them. Such as the Anthony Eden type, for instance.

ONLY EIGHT WOMEN

To the Editor:—Only eight women candidates up for election in this great Dominion of Canada. Shocking to say the least, and more shocking to note neither of the major parties saw fit to recognize one of their women. This in the face of what our lovely, brilliant Queen Elizabeth said while on Their Majesties memorable visit to our boasted democratic country. Quoting Her Majesty's words as I recall, she "hoped soon to see in Canada many more women as members of parliament." Such balanced judgment and vision as Her Majesty possesses might well have been relied upon.

Had our two major political parties been blessed with—I think gumption is the word—they would and should have been first to give women nomination at least two in each province. Perhaps the fact that too much has been left to rather elderly bachelors to decide is the principal cause.

When the opinions of men only enter into the discussions of issues which concern the welfare of the family side of the masses, it's just a bit hopeless.

ALICE McGREGOR.

WAR MARRIAGE PREPAREDNESS

To the Editor:—The following letter appeared: "I want to know, before deciding where I should cast my vote, what the present government, if re-elected, intends doing about the divorce law amendment. On the other hand, what about the opposing party? What is its attitude towards this question? Do they favor amendment in the shouting about 'our war effort,' will they, too, avoid mentioning it? Are we to continue under medieval law? I want to know. A. E. Jorgenson."

Surely the result in Great Britain through the survey of the ballot is sufficient illustration for our government to realize the desires of the majority. Foolish war marriages have already taken place, and will do so throughout the war (similar to the last). Our wealthy are financially able to escape across the border, so I and thousands from the working classes also want to know before we vote.

HAS PARLIAMENTARY POSSIBILITIES

To the Editor:—In a letter a Mr. Fairweather very unfairly criticized Mr. Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate in Nanaimo. He made no reference to the other four candidates, however. Mr. Chambers, as his legions of supporters testify to, will have all the votes he needs on election day, and his constituents will have a most worthy and able representative of great parliamentary possibilities in Ottawa.

MAN WITH PLAN IS THIS CANDIDATE

NANAIMO—Who is this man Povah who has no party and holds no meetings, and what is he running for?

This is the question that is coming into Nanaimo from all parts of the Nanaimo riding, particularly from the more distant parts, such as Saanich.

An inquiring reporter got busy here to find out for the benefit of voters faced with five candidates, and this is what he found:

W. F. Povah is 59, was born in Winnipeg, was in the Klondike gold rush, was a newspaperman in Victoria and Vancouver, once published a coast monthly magazine, recently retired to a farm north of here, has a wife and seven children, and is writing a book on what is wrong with society.

What's he after? He has a plan, which he explains as follows:

"It is a reversion to common sense use of our natural resources and utilization of our tremendous waste along with the by-products of mine, forest, farm and sea, to give work to all our people. So completely would it fill our needs that everybody who can work will have a job and those unable to work will receive a 'decent' monthly allowance, without age limitations. It would provide funds to do all this without inflation, borrowing or taxation. The present ruinous taxation system would be abolished.

"Also, my plan would wipe out party adminstration abuses, assure that no owner of home or business shall lose it for inability to pay taxes, or be asked to surrender his home to obtain a disgraceful and inadequate pension, and it would abolish relief by providing work for all. It would take the millions of dollars the big business trusts take out of the pockets of the people of Canada and turn this money back to the people who produce the wealth. So that it may be approved by everybody, my plan will not offend the religious or political leanings of anyone."

To give his plan to the people is the reason Mr. Povah is a candidate in the federal election. He thinks his plan is so good he is reported to have mortgaged his farm to raise the $200 candidate's deposit, which he must forfeit if he does not obtain half the number of votes received by the winner.

Toronto Man Kills Children and Self

TORONTO (CP)—Asphyxiated by illuminating gas, Malcolm McDougall and his three children were found today in a single bed at the home in which they boarded. The children were Malcolm Jr. 10, Donald seven, and Christiana five.

Police said gas jets in the room had been turned and that cracks under the door had been stuffed with cloth. The father was unemployed and had a pension as a veteran of the first Great War.

"This man deliberately murdered his three children," Dr. Smirle Lawson, chief coroner, said. "Death was due to murder and suicide. There will be neither inquest nor autopsy."

A fourth child, an infant, was with the mother, who works as a domestic in a north Toronto home.

Smelling gas shortly before noon today, a roomer, J. Spruce, broke down McDougall's door and found the bodies. The cap of a gas connection had been removed and the jet was full on.

"McDougall had been drinking last night," said Dr. Lawson. "He offered some to a roomer with the comment that he didn't need to worry about the cost since he had money and would get some more today. He was on relief.

"The children had gone to bed. About 1.30 this morning McDougall went up to their room, put adhesive tape over all openings and then unscrewed the pipe cap with pliers.

Yesterday, the mother took all the children to church.

Chinese Claim Gains On Several Fronts

HONGKONG (AP) — Chinese reported successes today on war fronts as far separated as southern China and Inner Mongolia, in the far north.

Near Quyuan, in western Suiyuan, they said Chinese troops had stopped a Japanese advance in the Mongolian province and had seized a large quantity of Japanese war material, including several field pieces and 27 military trucks.

A Japanese retreat eastward was said to have been impeded by guerrillas' destruction of bridges across the Ula River.

Fighting was reported also near the Hunan-Hopeh province border, where the Chinese said they were resisting a three-pronged Japanese attack.

In the southern province of Kwangsi, recently the main war theatre, the centre of fighting was said to have shifted south of Lingshan were Chinese said a "Japanese remnant is surrounded." They previously had reported stopping a Japanese thrust northeast from Lingshan.

The Central (Chinese) News Agency said about 500 Japanese had been killed or injured when two troop trains collided March 22 at Suchow, junction of the Lunghai and Tientsin-Pukow Railroads.

Guerrillas, it said, ambushed one train on the Lunghai line east of Suchow, and, attempting to escape at top speed, it crashed into the other, telescoping several coaches.

WILL LECTURE ON SUBMARINES

Taking "Submarine Warfare During the Great War" as his subject, Commander G. B. Spicer-Simson, D.S.O., R.N., widely-known authority on naval warfare, will give a lecture in the Christ Church Memorial Hall on Thursday evening at 8. The proceeds of the lecture will be donated to the Red Cross Society.

Commander Spicer - Simson's address should prove interesting to the public. He was official lecurer for the Admiralty during the last Great War and was given special information by the authorities. His extensive technical knowledge will also add to the interest of the lecture which will be illustrated by slides selected from Admiralty war photographs.

At a recent lecture given by the commander, he told his audience of submarine activity, and explained many of the anti-submarine measures adopted by Great Britain. He will probably explain many of the details of [illegible] in the present war.

$25,000 Fire Wrecks R.C.A.M.C. Building

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP)—Fire destroyed a six-story building used by the Department of National Defence and housing the 14th Field Ambulance of the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps here last night.

All occupants of the Mill Street bulding in Saint John's business section reached safety, including a number of patients.

The fire, of unkown origin, started in the basement. The loss is estimated at least $25,000, but no official figures are available.

NOW THEY KNOW

Extract from speech of G. A. A. Hebden, Victoria West, in support of Mr. R. W. Mayhew, Liberal candidate:

"The date, November 4, 1605, will long be remembered in British history, for on that day the government discovered and foiled the gunpowder plot which was to have blown up the House of Parliament the next day.

"Likewise, January 25, 1940, will long be remembered in Canadian history, for on that day Premier King arrested the political plot to blow up the ministry.

"The 'Three Musketeers' from Ontario — Manion, Hepburn and Drew—perhaps now know that Ottawa, not Toronto, is the national capital."

3 Older Parties Gang Up to Keep 'Bill' Herridge Out

By NORMAN MacLEOD

OTTAWA—Counting originally upon an easy victory in Kindersley because of the Social Credit's handy win in 1935, Hon. W. D. Herridge, New Democracy party leader, now faces a virtual certainty of being among the missing at the next parliamentary roll call.

The reason is mainly that the C.C.F. forces are going out of their way in Kindersley to settle an old score they have against Mr. Herridge. Until the New Democracy movement came along, the C.C.F. considered they had a political patent to the use of the reform cry. Mr. Herridge infringed upon their slogan, even had the temerity to suggest that if the C.C.F. did not like his competition, they should merge their identity in his new party. When the Woodsworth-Coldwell forces rejected this proposition, Mr. Herridge invaled their most promising field, Saskatchewan.

GANGING UP

Now, however, in Kindersley, the C.C.F. are getting a little of their own back. They have entered a candidate in the field. The Conservatives have stayed out. Admittedly, the C.C.F. cannot capture the seat. But by splitting the left-wing vote that [illegible] to Mr. Herridge, they can make it possible for the united right-wing that the Liberal candidate will poll to defeat him.

The truth is that the New Democracy leader has been ambushed in Kindersley by a combination of Liberals, Conservatives and C.C.F., who have been "laying" for him for a long time. Not one of the three groups has any love for Mr. Herridge. The Liberals and Conservatives both regard him as a turncoat, while to the C.C.F. he is the archtype of impudent usurper. Consequently, it has not been difficult to get the three forces to unite to "do a job" on him.

ANGRY EDITOR

In his bid for parliamentary honors the New Democracy leader is accompanied in Kindersley by his first lieutenant and chief journalistic aide, the editor of the Independent Otawa Evening Citizen. In an editorial to his paper here, Mr. Herridge's scribe-reporter reveals by a display of impotent wrath the unexpected odds that have been encountered.

"There is no likelihood," the Citizen's editor complains angrily, "of the C.C.F. candidate's election in Kindersley. His entry will, however, serve reaction's purpose. The hope of reaction is to keep Mr. Herridge out of Parliament. A Liberal candidate has also been nominated."

"GIVE HIM THE WORKS"

Altogether, the clear intimation is that Liberals, Tories, and C.C.F. have "ganged up" on the New Democracy leader to give him "the works" and that they are making a fairly effective job of it. It looks as though Mr. Herridge might be fortunate to escape from the fracas with his life, let alone his deposit.

The situation would have added importance if there was any likelihood of the New Democracy party being a factor in the next Parliament. But so far as political circles on Parliament Hill can learn from country-wide reports, there is no such prospect. Far from proving a factor in the House now being chosen, observers of the old-line parties express the opinion that Hon. "Bill" Herridge's movement has even failed to achieve the nuisance value that the Reconstruction Party of Hon. "Harry" Stevens wielded in the 1935 voting.

Weymouth College Forced to Close

LONDON (CP)—The war has taken its first toll of England's public schools with the closing of 77-year-old Weymouth College.

The Bishop of Salisbury, Rt. Rev. E. N. Lovett, in the school's valedictory, voiced the fear that other public schools will "share the same fate."

A steady fall of entries indicated British parents, facing mounting war taxes and living expenses, are unable to meet Weymouth's fees, £125 (about $600) yearly in college and £110 in the junior school. These are low, however, compared with England's most expensive boys' school, Eton, which charges £245 a year.

Clement R. Attlee, Labor Party leader, writing in the London Daily Herald, commented: "If the public schools are to be saved they must cease to be class institutions. They will need public money, with the necessary consequences of public control."

ONTARIO MINISTER LAUDS WAR EFFORT

PARIS, Ont. (CP) — Hon. Harry Nixon, provincial secretary, told a political meeting at the week-end he believed Canada was prosecuting the war as vigorously as possible.

Mr. Nixon supported Premier Hepburn's motion of censure on the federal government in the Ontario legislature in January, but later withdrew his support in a resignation statement.

"When the King government was carrying on so satisfactorily, it did not seem that it would be fair to you, fair to myself or fair to Premier Hepburn if I remained in the Cabinet while the criticism was going on," he said.

"I offered my resignation in good faith and, knowing my leader as I do, I had not the slightest doubt that he would accept it. When members of the Cabinet and the Premier came to me expressing a desire for me to return, I did so without withdrawing or retracting the statement which I had given to the public. I don't think, and didn't then, that the administration of the war effort of Canada comes within the jurisdiction of the provincial government."

BRITISH, U.S. AIMS SAME, SAYS HALIFAX

LONDON (CP)—Viscount Halifax, Foreign Secretary, in a message broadcast during the British Broadcasting Company's news period [illegible] of Britain with those of the United States.

"When our victory has been won, Finland will inevitably share the benefits which will spring from establishment of that lasting and righteous peace which the British Prime Minister and the President of the United States have both declared to be the only peace which is possible," he said.

Lord Halifax praised the courage of Finnish soldiers, saying that if others had shared Finland's determination to resist evil and barbarism Britain and Finland now would be fighting side by side in a common cause.

The British press at the week-end discussed at some length the attitude of the United States to the war and toward Great Britain.

Among the editorials and articles on United States opinion was one in the Sunday Chronicle which said that in the last war "at this stage" the United States changed its tune from "I Didn't Raise My Boy to Be a Soldier" to "The Yanks Are Coming."

"That may not happen again. If it does, American help will be as welcome as it would be valuable," it added.

"Hitler thinks he can fool the United States by talking peace and good will," "Goebbels Gulls America" and "Britain losing war of words: Goebbels' lies sweep America" were some of the headings with which the Sunday press showed growing interest in the United States' reaction to war incidents.

FINAL APPEAL FOR MANION PLAN

FORT WILLIAM, Ont. (CP)—In a final appeal for endorsement of his wartime National Government proposal, Conservative Leader Manion Saturday night called on the people of Canada to "do the big thing and bury our partisan hatchets at least until peace has been won."

"Those who have no knowledge of war may say that politics are more important than preventing Hitler winning. I cannot agree," Dr. Manion asserted in a broadcast over an Ontario network. Broadcasts simlar to Dr. Manion's address, which outlined in detail the program of the National Government Party, were given in other provinces by lieutenants of the Conservative leader.

"A National Government can more effectively retrench, can more successfully organize the nation for voluntary service than can a group of party politicians pledged to serve their party first and the nation second," he said.

If Canada had the will, it had the opportunity of "organizing as no other nation can organize so to practice national, community, family and individual thrift that we can meet most of our war costs out of revenue instead of piling up debts bound to create a crisis when we swing over from war to a peacetime basis."

"This can be done only by the spontaneous, voluntary effort of our people, directed by a government which is in touch with all the people through local organizations ready and eager to serve in a consultative capacity," he said.

Mayhew for Victoria

IT IS FAIRLY SAFE TO ASSUME BY THIS time that the majority of the people of Canada are quite satisfied that Prime Minister Mackenzie King followed the right and most sensible procedure when he dissolved Parliament on January 25. He avoided a double election campaign, saved the country a good deal of money, cut profitless recriminations in half, and limited the dislocation of the nation's business to an irreducible minimum. The farcical suggestion that he assumed the role of dictator was soon thrown into the discard by all intelligent Conservative speakers; his appeal straight to the Canadian people—the source of parliamentary authority—naturally disposed of the charge in all its particulars.

It is the people who will render their verdict in the polling booths of the country tomorrow. All Mr. King has asked them to decide for themselves is whether they want him and his government to carry on, or whether they would prefer to turn over to Dr. Manion and some mythical cabinet, composed of unknown and untried men, the job of familiarizing themselves with the nation's war effort and the task of conducting Canada's business in all its multifarious detail. The Prime Minister has rendered an account of his stewardship on several occasions since dissolution. He has made no claim to infallibility; his progress reports have not exceeded the bounds of common sense and truth; he has had information in his possession of which he might have made effective political use; but the exigencies of wartime circumstances precluded the employment of such tactics. In other words, much of the criticism indulged in by his opponents had its origin in and obtained most of its partizan color from innuendo and half-truths. Mr. King relied chiefly for his counter arguments on his unquestioned knowledge that Canada's war effort was from the outset, and has been from month to month, of the precise type required by the British and French governments.

It is not necessary at this stage, of course, to rehash the polemical exchange which has marked the campaign in the constituency of Victoria. Mr. Mayhew's record at Ottawa, as a citizen of this community, as a practical exponent of the philosophy of the greatest good for the greatest number, as a man of unimpeachable integrity, is too well known to require special emphasis. We bespeak for him at the polls tomorrow, therefore, a reaffirmation of the confidence which the electorate reposed in him 24 months ago. He is the right man to send to support the King government, not only because his paramount thought is the winning of the war, but also because he is thoroughly familiar with what already has been done, and because he knows that the present administration is adequately equipped to carry on effectively and in accordance with the wishes of the Canadian people. He wants Victoria's voice to be as emphatic as possible—a very definite instruction to him to tell the government to go the limit in its war effort.

Chambers for Nanaimo

ALTHOUGH MR. ALAN CHAMBERS DID not obtain quite enough votes when he made his first bid for federal parliamentary honors in the general election of 1935 to permit him to go to Ottawa as the representative for the constituency of Nanaimo, the experience he gained in the wide realm of Dominion affairs, as chairman of the federal Youth Employment Committee alone, has admirably equipped him to serve the important area he knows so well. For it may be said without fear of contradiction that no aspirant for service at the national capital has acquainted himself more thoroughly with this large riding—one with such diversified interests—than has Mr. Chambers.

We in Victoria naturally are especially concerned in the identity of Nanaimo's representative at Ottawa. The two ridings are significantly complementary to one another by reason of their community of industrial and agricultural interest. None of Mr. Chambers' competitors has had national experience in any sense of the term; none better than the Liberal candidate knows the requirements of the people whom he hopes to serve. It is logical to suppose, moreover, that the government at Ottawa would prefer the whole of Vancouver Island's representation to be sympathetic to its policies. Mr. A. W. Neill has sat for Comox-Alberni since 1921, and while he wears an Independent label, his outlook conforms with the philosophy of Liberalism. Thus would Mayhew, Chambers and Neill make an excellent trio, presenting as they would a common front from this section of British Columbia.

Throughout his campaign, incidentally, Mr. Chambers has devoted intelligent consideration to the problems of the peace. Very properly has he argued that just as the government had made important preparations for the conflict in which the Dominion is engaged, so it must anticipate the inescapable aftermath. His intimate knowledge of Canada's youth, its perplexities and hopes, would be extremely useful at Ottawa. He should head the poll for his riding tomorrow night.

It is a good thing for Dr. Manion the campaign has ended. He could not possibly have thought of any new things to promise.

Promises

IF PROMISES WON ELECTIONS, DR. Manion should walk away with the election. Grant Dexter, the Ottawa correspondent of the Winnipeg Free Press, has been keeping a record day by day of Dr. Manion's publicly-made promises across the country. They add up to a total which sets an all-time record, even outdoing Mr. Bennett in his 1930 "new deal" campaign.

Here is the record of Dr. Manion's campaign promises up to March 6, with others to be added since that date:

To form a truly national government of the best brains. (Statements by Dr. Manion on January 26, 29 and 31, and in all of his campaign speeches.)

Opposition to conscription but a commitment to provide the maximum war effort on a voluntary basis. (Brockville, February 8.)

To banish extravagance, patronage, favoritism and inefficiency from the war effort. (Brockville.)

Opposition to railway amalgamation. (Brockville.)

To include in his government a minister for youth. (Fort William, February 12.)

To include in his cabinet a woman to represent the women of Canada. (Brandon, February 16.)

To negotiate with Britain an agreement giving western farmers approximately $1.50 per bushel for wheat. (Brandon.)

To call an international conference to solve the wheat problem of the world and to guarantee that it will succeed. (Brandon.)

To implement the Purvis report on employment. (Vancouver, February 20.) This report contained many recommendations involving large expenditures and, also, constitutional difficulties with the provinces.

To plan and carry out a large public works program after the war. (Vancouver.)

To increase our foreign trade. (Vancouver.)

To increase our tourist trade. (Vancouver.)

To increase the investment of foreign capital in Canada. (Vancouver.)

To work out a new national fuel policy (Calgary, February 22.)

To carry through a colonization scheme, after the war, which will fill the "vast unsettled areas by the right people." (Edmonton.)

To hard surface the Trans-Canada highway, with feeder roads to it. (Winnipeg, February 24.)

To give the labor portfolio in the cabinet to a labor man. (Winnipeg.)

To set up a livestock board to regulate and control the livestock industry and to investigate the packing industry. (Toronto, March 1.)

To increase the tariff protection to the Canadian farmer. (Niagara Falls, March 1.)

To persuade the British government to enlarge and extend the Empire preferences. (Niagara Falls.)

To control price spreads between the producer and the consumer. (Niagara Falls.)

To banish all connection between domestic prices for farm products and the world price for these products by setting up export boards to handle export surpluses. (Niagara Falls.) Dr. Manion addresses this policy particularly to such commodities as "butter, cheese, canned goods, tinned meats, etc."

To enact a Marketing Act which will vigorously encourage co-operation in the marketing, regulation and distribution of all farm products, which will "tend to stabilize prices so that the farmer may be ensured a just return on his operations." The farmer to become "master of his own destiny." (Niagara Falls.)

To provide plenty of long-term mortgage money for farmers at low interest rates. (Niagara Falls.)

To provide a special fund to assist farmers in draining their land. (Niagara Falls.)

To assist the farmer in obtaining fertilizers. (Niagara Falls.)

To expand agricultural research to the end that the farmers' markets will be enlarged. (Niagara Falls.)

To increase tariffs so that the balance of trade with the United States will be corrected, it being now, according to Dr. Manion, two to one in favor of the United States. (Belleville, March 2.)

Dr. Manion elucidated his tariff proposals in these words: "It is true that the western wheat grower cannot be protected by tariffs, since he has to sell four-fifths of his product in a world market. But there can be protection for the eastern farmer." Dr. Manion also put his highway program more succinctly at Belleville than previously. "The tourist traffic, mostly coming from the United States, is of great value to Canada, and could be doubled and even trebled. What is required is hard-surfaced roads, the completion of the Trans-Canada, for example."

Abolition of the radio license fee and establishment of the CBC on a pay-as-you-go basis. (Montreal, March 6.)

That disappointment for Dr. Manion is coming through the fact that voters have developed a healthy skepticism of politicians' promises. Their willingness to accept promises seems to vary in inverse ratio to the number made. Indeed, when a politician promises almost everything to everybody the public comes to expect nothing at all of him. Actually, the promises he has been making is a measure of the experience of Dr. Manion, as the more experienced a politician, the fewer promises he risks.

Fortunately for the effective continuation of our war effort there is little chance of Dr. Manion having an opportunity to implement his promises at this time. For, if there were an attempt to carry out even part of his proposals, Parliament would be so loaded with Manion new deal legislation that the business of winning the war would be crowded out of the picture. Also, there would be little money left with which to finance our war effort.

South of the Border

ARTICLE 8

By BRUCE HUTCHISON

HENRY WALLACE, United States Secretary of Agriculture, a young man with an irresistible smile, a mane of disordered hair and the light of idealism burning brightly in his eyes, is busier than ever these days. Early in the morning, before his office opens, he goes down to the park by the Washington Monument and throws a boomerang for exercise. Lately, in addition to all his other hobbies—and most of Washington hasn't heard of it yet—he has taken up the study of Spanish. Once a week his chief officials lunch with him in his office and everybody speaks in Spanish.

Mr. Wallace is a little shy about his Spanish. He told me it wasn't very good yet. Good or bad, it is a portent of some concern to the world at large, of most particular concern to Canada.

Spanish is the language of South America. The United States is taking South America under its wing, and if an enduring peace does not come to Europe after this war the United States is thinking seriously of withdrawing itself into the western hemisphere and creating a North and South American civilization.

Men like Mr. Wallace are looking ahead already. They want to be ready for anything. They want to talk to South America in its own tongue. Mr. Wallace introduced me to the ambassador from Ecuador, a dapper little gentleman who clicked his heels together, howing from the waist, and beamed on the American cabinet minister who was learning to use the musical syllables of old Spain. South America is looking northward.

ALREADY THIS VISION of a central hemisphere of the west has taken on some substance and may yet become the most delicate issue before the people of Canada. By the Declaration of Panama, all the nations of the two continents, except our own, agreed to keep out of the present war, and to keep belligerents out of their waters. Now the United States is trying to place under this political superstructure a foundation of trade with South America, and Mr. Wallace is the North American statesman most concerned, since South America's exports are mostly agricultural.

It is a glittering dream—the western hemisphere isolated from the tribal quarrels of Europe, two continents devoted to the arts of peace, a huge Shangri La, safe from a made world behind a circle of battleships. The dream took shape when Europe went to war again, when America began to despair of the Old World altogether, when the American people resolved to stay out of all European wars in the future. But look what happened. The very process of the war started to shatter the western hemisphere program at its inception.

THE THEORY of a self-contained hegemony of North and South America is based on trade moving north and south between the two continents, but as soon as the United States repealed its neutrality legislation a new kind of trade, the munitions trade, started to flow across the Atlantic to Europe. Through armament orders, the economy of the United States is more closely tied into Europe today than it has been at any time since the immediate postwar years. Every day, instead of withdrawing more into this hemisphere, the United States develops a larger stake in Europe

Secondly, while Germany has lost its South American trade, Britain, not the United States, is beginning to capture it. By the necessities of war, Britain has put its foreign trade under totalitarion control, virtually on a barter basis, and the American trader cannot meet such competition.

Thirdly, the hemispheric idea is directly opposed to the Hull trade treaty policy, to which the United States government is pledged. That policy seeks to open up trade everywhere, not to direct it or confine it.

Fourthly, large import of South American products into the United States would cut clearly across the basic theory of the New Deal, which is that the United States can prosper best by developing, controlling and subsidizing its own internal market.

ALL THIS, OF COURSE, is just another example of the dualism of the Roosevelt administration. It has never finally moved in one direction or the other—fully into the New Deal or fully into the alternative of foreign trade. The western hemisphere program, like everything else in American affairs today, remains in flux.

Nevertheless, it cannot be disregarded. If Europe continues to war, if there seems to be no prospect of a long settlement, the American people unquestionably will turn more and more inwards on their own continent, but they cannot feel safe here if South America is exposed to European penetration. The inclusion of South America, as everyone in Washington will tell you, is an essential part of a real program of isolation.

MEN LIKE MR. WALLACE know that to develop a self-contained economy of North and South America is no easy task. They must face the obvious fact that, as they are organized today, the economic systems of the two continents do not complement one another but are competitive. In general, South America wants to sell the same sort of products that North America has in surplus quantities. How can North America buy them? And if North America cannot buy South American products, how can South America buy North American products?

(In his next article Mr. Hutchison will discuss Canada's position in the western hemisphere economy.)

Dr. Manion's Difficulty

From Toronto Star

IN HIS BOOK "Life Is An Adventure," which was published in 1936, Dr. Manion made the following statement about conscription:

"I was one of those who came to the conclusion that if the war (the Great War) were to be carried on successfully, indeed if the war were to be carried on justly and fairly to our nation, conscription of manpower was the only satisfactory method. While no one more devoutly desires, or is a more sincere advocate of, world peace, I am convinced that the only fair and just method of raising men for the army during war is by conscription, carried out so that those most suitable to serve in the army would serve there, and those who, because of family ties or scientific training, should remain at the rear or at the base, should be kept there."

WHEN DR. MANION says, as he was quoted as saying at Sherbrooke that he has now changed his mind, and when Mrs. Manion makes the same statement about him in a radio broadcast, that is an understandable attitude, for minds do change and there is nothing to be ashamed of in altering an opinion. But the Conservative leader this week made a different pronouncement, and it is hardly one which does him credit. According to the Globe and Mail report of his meeting at Quebec City, he said with respect to his critics:

"They base their statements upon the fact that in 1917, when I returned from the front, I ran as a member supporting the Unionist government of that day. I might point out to you that I never voted for conscription—the vote was taken in 1917 before I was a member of the House of Commons. Further, their statement that I betrayed Laurier is also a falsehood, as I was never a member of parliament behind Laurier."

THAT, OF COURSE, is sheer evasion. It is true that the vote on the conscription bill was taken before Dr. Manion was a member of the House, but he ran as a Unionist to enforce the bill, and he voted in parliament for its enforcement. It is also true that he was never a member of parliament behind Laurier, but he was a Laurier candidate prior to becoming a Unionist one. He says in his book (page 223): "While serving with the French army in 1915, a cablegram came to me from the Liberal party of my home constituency, informing me that I had been unanimously chosen as their candidate at the next election for the House of Commons . . . I wisely or unwisely accepted. I remained the Liberal candidate throughout my service at the front." Then on pages 224-5:

"As a result of my opinion on this question (conscription) I was one of the followers of Sir Wilfrid Laurier who seperated from him. It was doubly difficult for me to do so because not only had I as a young man inherited the Liberal tradition and followed it rather actively, but through my wife I had had the honor of a personal friendship with Sir Wilfrid and Lady Laurier—in fact the latter was present at our wedding in 1906. However, there existed the one justification for a man leaving his party—difference of opinion on a great principle."

THAT, from Dr. Manion's book, is a frank, reasonable and fair statement. So far as The Star is concerned, there can be no criticism of it. What does merit criticism is his present statement of only half the truth, namely that he was never a member behind Laurier when he was, as a fact, a Liberal candidate behind that leader. And Dr. Manion's assertion that he never voted for the conscription bill is again an evasion, for he voted for enforcing conscription. On Page 933 of 1918 Hansard is Sir Robert Borden's motion enlarging the definition of men coming within Class 1 of the Military Service Act and calling up this class for compulsory service. Before the vote Mr. Lapointe said (Page 964):

"As I was opposed last session to conscription of all kinds, and as I was re-elected as an opponent of conscription, the members of this new parliament will not expect me to vote for an extension of the law which I opposed last session. This resolution goes further than the previous law and sets aside all the exemption rights that men have acquired by judgment or otherwise at big legal expenses, and extends the age to bring within the law young men of 19."

Mr. Lapointe thereupon moved the six-months hoist as an amendment, and on Page 965 Dr. Manion is listed as voting against the hoist. On the same page he is then listed as voting for the Borden motion which "went further" than the original conscription bill. In doing so he was only taking the stand many other Liberals took. But when he now seeks to cloud the record by saying he never voted for the conscription bill itself, he is hardly at his best. He is using a literally true statement to convey an impression which the facts do not warrant.

THE ANSWER IS "YES"

To the Editor:—Mr. Mackenzie King in the House of Commons on March 30, 1939: "One strategical fact is clear. The days of great expeditionary forces of infantry crossing the oceans are not likely to recur. Two years ago I expressed in this House of Commons the view that it was extremely doubtful if any of the British Dominions would ever send another expeditionary force to Europe."

Is this statement compatible with Mr. King's profession of preparadness and of close contact with the British government?

C. WALLICH.

Cowichan Bay, V.I.

[Edit Note—Up until after the Munich crisis, and the new military agreement with France, British policy, as publicly set out in Parliament and by the chief British military writers, had for some time been based on the theory there would not again be a British expeditionary force to the continent as in the last war. Even now, Britain's commitment in France is limited to 19 divisions. Actually, the Canadian government embarked on a preparedness program before Britain did. Witness the local coast defence works begun three to four years ago. Britain did not get down seriously to rearmament until about the time of Munich, a year and a half ago.]

WHY?

To the Editor:—Will the C.C.F. explain why the don't start their meetings with O Canada?

The local candidate has preached this is a capitalist war. How come they want people to believe this, when before Munich they were criticizing Chamberlain for not acting against the dictators?

MEDALS FOR C.C.F.

To the Editor:—I just wonder if Hitler and Stalin have sent some medals to B.C. for the C.C.F. members as their program is more radical and disgraceful than any ever heard of in Canadian history. They want to pension off the King and Queen, saying that the words "British Empire" should disappear and also the French Empire. If the C.C.F. said the same thing in any other part of the world, they would be hanged or put in prison for life and their sons put in conservation camps such as Hitler operates.

War Cabinet Seen Real Issue

Closing his campaign with meetings at Langford and Luxton Saturday night, Alan Chambers, Liberal candidate in Nanaimo riding, declared all the election arguments boiled down into the one issue of choosing a government that would conduct the country's war effort with a maximum of efficiency while maintaining unity on the home front.

"Canada's policy in the war so far has been along the lines desired by Britain and France. That is why I ask you to support the government," he declared. "Our effort so far has been deliberate and calmly calculated, without hysteria, just the same as the Allies."

He said the Allied policy was to win the war by crushing Germany economically so the people would overthrow the Nazi regime. There had been no desire to throw huge armies of men at each other's throats and bring about an enormous loss of life.

Conservatives, he said, demanded that more soldiers be sent. His view was that when the Allies wanted them Canada would send them.

On the other hand the C.C.F. were demanding an immediate peace conference and withdrawal of Canadian troops from Europe. Yet C.C.F. supporters had been the loudest critics of the appeasement policy which had averted war until September.

"They wouldn't trust Hitler two years ago. Now that he is drunk with power they want to hold a peace conference with him," he declared.

The views of these two parties represented the opposing extremes in the argument, he said. One party said the government was not doing enough, another said it was doing too much. That should indicate the government had followed a policy approximating what the people as a whole wanted.

Mr. Chambers decried the abusive criticism used by the Conservatives in the campaign. He said Dr. Manion had bolstered German morale and done Canada a disservice in his statements about the equipment of the troops. It would appear his desire for office had been put ahead of his duty to the country.

Canada had been as well prepared for the war as was possible in a peace-loving democracy, he said. Careful plans had been made well ahead of time to prevent profiteering and to bolster the country's defences. It never maintained a large standing army.

He questioned the sincerity of Dr. Manion in advocating national government because he was running candidates against members of the King government whom he had previously praised. It appeared that the only kind of national government Dr. Manion wanted was one which he would lead.

The candidate discussed the need of planning for peace problems after the war, outlining his proposal of a national contributory superannuation scheme that would enable older people to enjoy the leisure of retirement while their jobs would be available to their sons and daughters.

Hon. Norman Whittaker, K.C., Speaker of the Legislature, said Prime Minister King, elected in peacetime, wanted a mandate to carry on in wartime.

Conservatives did not have a sound policy to offer the country, he said, so they had made a campaign of sowing suspicion and hate in the minds of the people.

Mr. Whittaker paid a personal tribute to Mr. Chambers, particularly with reference to his work as chairman of the youth employment committee and his continued interest in the problems of the Nanaimo riding.

Frank Hall of Vancouver, supporting Mr. Chambers, also spoke of his active interest in youth problems.

Contract Pay System

NANAIMO (CP) — William Atkinson, vice-president of District 18, United Mine Workers of America, said negotiations between the union and Canadian Collieries had resulted in the contract pay system being adopted at No. 10 mine, South Wellington.

LYON—TREMAYNE

VANCOUVER — Easter lilies graced the altar and chancel in St. Paul's Church on Saturday afternoon at 3.30 as Audrey Jane Ronald, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. H. Ernest Tremayne of this city, formerly of William Head, Victoria, exchanged marriage vows with Mr. James Walter Lyon, son of Mrs. E. G. Lyon of Vancouver, and Dr. Edwin Lyon of Prince George.

Rev. Canon Harold G. King read the service when Mrs. Ruston H. Goepel was her sister's matron of honor and Mr. David Stanley acted as best man for the groom, while Messrs. Ruston H. Goepel and Patrick F. P. Guthrie were the ushers.

The bride wore a tailored blue mist suit, the clear tones of which were intensified by a blossom pink sheer blouse and pink felt hat, banded in navy to match her accessories.

The cool combination of navy, and white was favored by Mrs. Goepel for her smart frock trimmed in fresh white accents, to match the band on her navy straw with floral trimming at the front.

The residence of the bride's parents on Jervis Street was the setting for an informal reception for immediate relatives and friends.

For motoring to Seattle the bride donned a tailored coat of pink and blue misted check.

Nelson will be the address of the couple following their honeymoon.

JOHNSON—HALL

ALBERNI—The distinction of being the first couple to exchange marriage vows at the new United Church of St. Andrew's was claimed on Saturday evening by Margaret Irene, youngest daughter of Mrs. M. Hall and the late Mr. Pierce Hall, and Mr. Arvid Johnson, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Vasa, Finland. Daffodils were used to decorate the chancel, and Rev. A. McLean performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her mother, the bride wore a smart tailored suit in marine blue gabardine, with burgundy hat and accessories, her shoulder spray composed of pink and white carnations. Mrs. Frank Kronman was her sister's matron of honor, in a myrtle green ensemble with hat and accessories to tone, and corsage of gardenias. Mr. Frank Kronman supported the bridegroom.

A reception was held at the residence of Mrs. B. Cole, sister of the bride, who received the guests in a russet-toned gown and corsage of gardenias, assisted by Mrs. M. Hall in a gown of floral crepe.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson left for their wedding trip to Vancouver, the bride donning a tailored topcoat over her suit. On their return they will reside in Alberni.

Pretty Easter Wedding at St. Mary's

With the lovely Easter decorations as a background, the marriage of Marjory May, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. G. Thomson, 2755 Cadboro Bay Road, and Mr. John Thomson, youngest son of Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Thomson, Saltair, V.I., was solemnized by Ven. Archdeacon A. E. de L. Nunns in St. Mary's Church Oak Bay, on Saturday evening at 8.30, in the presence of a large congregation.

Entering the church with her father, who gave her in marriage, to the strains of the "Lohengrin" "Bridal Chorus," played by the church organist, Mr. F. T. C. Wickett, the bride was a radiant picture in her lovely wedding gown of white peau-de-soie taffeta. The graceful frock, with its very full skirt extending into a long train, was worn with a fitted jacket fastened from neckline to waist with tiny buttons, the tight-fitting sleeves ending in a long point over the hand. Her two veils, an embroidered one worn over a veil of illusion, were fastened low down on the head to an Elizabethan coronet of handmade tulle flowers, each flower centred with a tiny orange blossom, and fell in filmy folds to the end of her train. A beautiful shower bouquet of roses and sweet peas completed the bridal ensemble.

IN PASTEL TONES

Charming frocks of pastel net, all made alike with ruffles, very full skirts and bolero jackets, were worn by the three bridal attendants. Miss Gwendolyn Williams, the maid of honor, was in wild rose pink net with shoes to match, and a hat of pink mohair trimmed with lilies of the valley; Miss Marjorie Dodsworth and Miss Joan Teasdale, the bridesmaids, wore Queen's blue and thistle net, respectively, with matching shoes, and small oval hats made of net to match their gowns, tied with ribbon streamers. All three carried colonial bouquets of sweet peas and carnations.

Mr. Frank Boughey was groomsman, and Messrs. Ronald McConnan and Cyril Webster ushered the guests to the pews, which were marked by large white tulle bows centred with daffodils and greenery. During the signing of the register, Mrs. Victor Meston sang "O Perfect Love."

RECEPTION HELD

About 125 guests attended the reception held at the home of the bride's parents, the bridal party receiving in front of the fireplace between standard baskets of daffodils and iris, with lighted white tapers in silver candelabra on the mantel.

They were assisted in receiving by Mrs. R. G. Thomson, wearing a gown of rose taffeta, with very full skirt and fitted jacket embroidered with silver and gold threads, a small flower-trimmed black straw hat and a corsage bouquet of pink carnations and blue forget-me-nots, and Mrs. J. M. Thomson, mother of the bridegroom, who was in black chiffon velvet and wore a flower-trimmed black hat and a corsage bouquet of roses and sweet peas.

Mr. A. J. Patton proposed the toast, after which the bride cut the cake, which stood at one end of the supper table, which was centred with a cut-glass bowl of pink and white carnations flanked by matching tapers in cut-glass holders.

Among the out-of-town guests were Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Gordon, Mrs. M. G. Hoyes, Mr. and Mrs. Ashton Collings and Miss M. Cornett, all of Vancouver; Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Thomson, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Patton, Alberni; Miss I. Thomson, Mr. C. Thomson, Mr. Edward Hoyes, Ladysmith, and Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Molyneux, Duncan.

Among the many handsome wedding gifts were a silver tea service from the bride's former associates in the Department of Education, Parliament Buildings, and a cut-work luncheon set from the B.C. Electric Tennis Club; and to the bridegroom a Kenwood blanket from members of the Times office and pressroom, and a Trilite lamp and electric sandwich toaster from his associates in the Times engraving department.

After a honeymoon on the mainland, for which the bride left in a heavenly blue frock with a black fitted coat and black hat trimmed with heavenly blue ribbon, Mr. and Mrs. Thomson will reside at 2223 Oak Bay Avenue.

The Women's Auxiliary to the Royal Jubilee Hospital will meet on Wednesday afternoon at 2.30, in the Nurses' Home.

Icy Weather Marks Easter Parade In New York

NEW YORK (AP)—A spanking wind, and sub-freezing temperature failed yesterday to dim New York's multi-million-dollar Easter parade as thousands of chic women flaunted spring's pert fashions from beneath costly winter mink.

On one of the coldest Easter days on record—it was 16 above zero at dawn services and only a few turned out — the ladies marched bravely up and down wearing everything the men say they don't like — and getting away with it.

A kindly sun later in the day took the chill off the expensively-gowned crowd. Predominant were the fastidious (but real) jewelry, the saucer-up hat whose cost equalled the week's rent, and the wedge shoe that drove strong men indoors.

At high noon, fashion — there was more color, twice as much flower-and-veil-for-the-hat as in former years — started moving along Fifth, Park and Madison Avenues.

As of old, the same society folk and political figures strolled by in expensive get-ups, but this year the admiring crowd was more smartly dressed, and the ladies of 30 and up won more stares than the hatless debutante.

BAKING-TIN HATS

Out of St. Thomas' Church on Fifth came Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, queen of the New York society that was, wearing a blue dress with matching hat; from St. Patrick's Cathedral, where a crowd of thousands jammed to watch the celebrities exit, came Postmaster - General James A. Farley in one party, and former-Governmer Alfred E. Smith in another, each wearing the traditional silk hat and cutaway coat.

On the avenue once pranced by the Vanderbilts and the Astors the curious also saw Wilda and Ethel Scharfman, pretty twin sisters, down from the Bronx for the Easter parade.

They wore hats fashioned from baking tins. On their hats were tinfoil flowers—a far cry from the hat of the Sarah Bernhardt era (high bonnet on back of head, ribbon under the chin), that characterized the parade.

Victoria's Sunshine Brings Out Gay Hats, Frocks

While New York shivered in bitter weather yesterday, Victoria revelled in brilliant, warm sunshine which brought out one of the gayest Easter parades seen in years.

So warm was the sun that furs were rare and winter coats went into the discard, superseded by summer-like suits and light frocks.

Easter "bonnets" bloomed like a garden, with a blaze of flowers of every variety and hue set at pert angles on summer-like straws. And pastel tones and the more vivid hues which are popular for spring were sported in smart new suits and frocks, with matching shoes to add the final touch of gaiety to Victoria's Easter parade.

While many of the men appeared in the battledress and service uniform of wartime, others wore light suits and sported new hats to show that, in the springtime, a young man's thoughts turn to other things besides love.

Solarium Shower Was Successful

A well-attended meeting of the Solarium W.A. was held on Thursday, with Mrs. Mugford presiding. The members were pleased to welcome three ladies from the Colwood W.I., who have kindly offered to help with the sewing.

Mrs. Walter Luney gave her report on the recent bridge tea, the net proceeds of which amounted to $56.60. A hearty vote of thanks was accorded to Mrs. Luney and Mrs. Walter Miles for the able way in which they convened the event.

Mrs. Neelands reported the return of 25 pairs of pyjamas, two tunics and five blouses. Since last meeting 41 garments have been cut out ready for making. Mrs. Wise has received six pairs of bedsocks, 16 vests, five pullovers, three pairs of pants and three small sweater coats. The members were gratified to learn that ladies of the Oak Bay Eastern Star, Lodge No. 42, have purchased material for pyjamas and vests, which they are making up.

Mrs. Mugford reported that the linen shower had brought in 385 pieces of linen and donations of $10 in cash. After some discussion of future activities the meeting was adjourned until April 18.

Thousands Attend Easter Services

Thousands of worshippers of all denominations turned out yesterday for Easter Sunday services in churches of Greater Victoria. The summer-like weather was responsible for capacity congregations throughout the day.

Specially prepared music was featured at many of the services, choirs being augumented for the occasion. In several instances the entire evening services were devoted to choral music, while in others visiting soloists gave appropriate selections.

First of the day's services, other than early Anglican and Catholic Communions, was the interdenominational sunrise service at Mount Tolmie, under the auspices of the Victoria Ministerial Association, conducted by Rev. A. E. Whitehouse, with Rev. H. A. McLeod, Rev. Dr. A. S. Imrie, Rev. J. L. W. McLean and Adjutant Charles Watt taking part.

At Christ Church Cathedral Dean S. H. Elliott conducted both services during the day, while Bishop H. E. Sexton preached at the evening service at St. John's Church.

Bishop John C. Cody was the celebrant at Roman Catholic services at St. Andrew's Cathedral.

Large congregations also attended services in the district churches, many of which were beautifully decorated for the occasion with Easter blossoms.

PUPILS' RECITAL

Pupils of Mrs. Annie Denton will give their annual recital on March 29 at 8 in the Knights of Columbus Hall, Government Street. McAllister will present Royal Academy Associated Board examination and Victoria Musical Festival cups and certificates to the successful students.

A dance will follow the recital, and the admission will be a silver collection taken at the door.

ADELAIDE, South Australia (CP) — Schoolgirls and great-grandmothers are united in war work, knitting and preparing bandages, in an enrollment of 40,000 women of South Australia under a central authority here.

Lady Tweedsmuir Given Mink Coat

OTTAWA (CP)—When Lady Tweedsmuir returns to England shortly, she will take with her a handsome mink coat, the gift of Canadian women, as tangible evidence of the affection in which she is held in the Dominion.

Small contributions from women all over the country made possible the presentation of the gift to Her Excellency yesterday. The widow of Canada's Governor-General, who died last month, will return to the United Kingdom soon and preparations for her departure are being made at Government House.

Seven representative women waited on Lady Tweedsmuir and asked her to accept the gift. Mrs. Ernest Lapointe, wife of the Justice Minister, made the presentation and told Lady Tweedsmuir how much her departure was regretted from one end of the Dominion to the other.

That as many women as possible might participate in the gift it had been asked that contributions be small and money poured in from the Yukon to Cape Breton. Small amounts in stamps came from the isolated Peace River and Cariboo districts which Lady Tweedsmuir helped with her prairie library scheme.

Liberal Leaders Men Of Experience—Mayhew

To a capacity audience in the Oak Bay Theatre Hall, R. W. Mayhew, Liberal candidate for Victoria, opened his closing appeal in the Victoria campaign Saturday night with an expression of sincere confidence in the ability and experience of the men who, in effect, form Canada's war cabinet under Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

Premier T. D. Pattullo and Mrs. Nellie McClung spoke in support of the candidate, and Hon. John Hart, Minister of Finance, was on the platform.

Mr. Mayhew was given a warm welcome in the district he once served as reeve, and frequent outbursts of applause punctuated his address.

He said that on the whole the campaign locally had been conducted on clean lines, but described a card put out recently by one of his opponents as a mean attack. He added, however, that one could easily slip off the rails in the heat of the fight and he was sure his opponent would forget it before long.

Throughout the rest of the country the conduct of the campaign did not reflect much credit on the people generally, Mr. Mayhew said. The opposition seemed bent only on pushing the government down in the mud. It was strange they could find so little to criticize that they had descended to personalities of the type used during the campaign. In his opinion the opposition had failed in its duty to the electorate, which was to honestly criticize the government.

NO COMPARISON

There was no way, he said, of making a camparison between the Conservatives and the government. Dr. Manion had no platform or policy except that of ousting the present administration. He would have to trust to chance to fill his cabinet. It was natural to assume he would make up a cabinet from the ranks of the elected representatives, but the Conservative Party did not have all the best brains in the country. Mr. Mayhew said he thought the best brains were already running affairs.

The candidate said that the public record of Mr. King and his key men would stand the closest scrutiny. People were entitled to know exactly the type of men who were conducting their business, especially in the crucial time of war, for they must have confidence in their leaders.

REAL LEADER

Mr. King's wide experience and qualities of leadership, his understanding of world affairs and complete acquaintance with Canada's problems fitted him not only to guide the country in war time, but to make a great contribution to the peace table when the war ended.

The Prime Minister, he said, was no dictator. One of his greatest virtues was loyalty to the men around him and to the people of Canada.

Mr. Mayhew reviewed the records of Hon. Ernest Lapointe, Minister of Justice; Hon. Norman Rogers, Minister of Defence; Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Transport; Hon. J. G. Gardiner, Minister of Agriculture, and Hon. J. L. Ralston, Minister of Finance.

"I want you to know these men," he said. "They are the men I am supporting back in Ottawa. They have nothing to gain but an honored name to leave for their families and friends, having done their duty."

NO PANIC

Canada must not have any panic when it reached the great crises, he said, and it would not so long as people had confidence in those at the helm of the ship of state.

[illegible] go back to Ottawa to tell Mr. King that Victoria wanted him to tackle the first things first. This meant, now, the winning of the war. It meant supplying the Canadian overseas forces with everything that was necessary, the organization of industries, agriculture and all economic resources so that England's needs could be filled at the best price Canada could offer. Men must be sent, but should not be used as sand bags. There must be the strictest economy in using the lives of men.

"It is a big task," he said, "but it can be done if we have the fullest confidence in those who are directing affairs at Ottawa."

HISTORIC ELECTION

Premier Pattullo declared Tuesday's election was the most important in Canada's history and the eyes of the world would be on the nation when it voted.

He said he could not recall an election where the opposition had offered such a paucity of argument against the government.

No one in Canada had the background of training required for the task of leading the nation as had Prime Minister King. Dr. Manion talked of forming a National government but it was the same old Conservative crowd that met him when he came to Victoria.

He was not at all surprised Mr. King called for the dissolution of Parliament after Dr. Manion's breach of the political truce. Mr. King at all times believed in the rights of Parliament, but on this occasion had taken his case to the higher authority, the people who created Parliament.

The Premier said it was a government's duty, if possible, to leave the country in as good a position after the war as before it, but if it became necessary to sacrifice everything it now had to win the war this must be done.

MRS. McCLUNG

Mrs. McClung paid a personal tribute to Mr. Mayhew, who, she said, had established a reputation for clear thinking. He was held in esteem on both sides of the House in Ottawa.

She said Prime Minister King had shown courage and statesmanship in going to the people to let them decide whether he was capable of conducting Canada's war effort.

Mr. King could answer those who demanded withdrawal of Canadian troops from Europe by stating that when Canada took her place at the side of the Allies she did it for the duration of the war. To those who said the Dominion had not done enough he could say that the government had done what the Allies wanted.

F. M. McGregor, who introduced Mr. Mayhew, listed "ten reasons why citizens of Greater Victoria say they are going to vote for Mr. Mayhew." A high tribute to the candidate's qualifications was also paid by J. B. Clearihue, K.C.

Sunrise Service Well Attended

As warm, bright sunshine flooded the green hillside and a cool breeze from the Straits caused the grass to wave gently to and fro, nearly 1,500 Victorians stood with bowed heads as Rev. A. E. Whitehouse, president of the Victoria Ministerial Association, gave the call to worship at the annual Easter Sunrise Service, held at Mount Tolmie yesterday morning.

Weather conditions were ideal for the brief but sacred service, and the gathering stood with bowed heads as the "Doxology" was sung and the invocation prayer was delivered by Rev. Whitehouse.

Hymns sung at the service were: "Crown Him With Many Crowns," "Jesus Christ Is Risen Today" and "Jesus Shall Reign." Accompaniment was given by the Salvation Army band.

Rev. G. McAllister gave the scripture reading, in the place of Rev. J. L. W. McLean, who was unable to attend because of military duties.

Rev. H. A. McLeod, delivered the Easter message, taking Matthew 28:16 as his text. He spoke of the significance of Easter and told the gathering of the reverence and nearness to God which is brought about by the spirit of Easter.

The benediction was given by Brigadier M. Junker of the Salvation Army, at the request of Adjutant C. Watt, who was scheduled to deliver the prayer.

Coins Are Jingling in Atlantic Fishermen's Pockets After Years of Hardships

Hit so hard by depression that a royal commission was appointed a few years ago to recommend changed conditions in the industry, fishermen of Canada's Atlantic seaboard are getting another start on the road to prosperity. For years the 40,000 men who draw their living from the sea have been forced to sell their catch at starvation prices, frequently winding up in debt for equipment after a year of difficult, dangerous work. The change started with the formation of co-operative credit unions throughout the Maritimes, coupled with a program of adult education that gave the fishermen a knowledge of social and economic conditions on which their living depended. Today, many a fisherman is jingling coins in his pocket for the first time in years, and the men pictured here can set out to the fishing grounds through bitter wintry weather, warmed by the knowledge that their toil will not be for nothing.

Leafs Challenged

Alberni Wants B.C. Playoff

Vancouver Maple Leafs were presented today with a new barrier to hurdle before they can represent British Columbia in the Dominion basketball playdowns.

The mainland squad squeezed out a 49 to 48 overtime victory over Victoria Arrows in Vancouver Saturday night, but the narrow margin was enough to give Maple Leafs their third straight victory in the best-of-five senior A title series.

In former years, the senior A titlists automatically became British Columbia champions, but Port Alberni A.P.L.'s caused a departure from that custom when they challenged Maple Leafs for the provincial championship after winning the senior B title in Port Alberni Saturday night.

President M. C. Gordon of the B.C. Basketball Association said in Vancouver last night there was nothing to prevent the senior "B" champions from issuing such a challenge. He added it was probable a series would be arranged within the next week. The B.C.A.A. had authority to decide whether the senior B team was strong enough to play such a series, he said, but he understood the Port Alberni team was above the "usual" senior B calibre.

Port Alberni rode into the senior B championship with a 37 to 19 victory over Rossland Royals in the Vancouver Island town Saturday night. The win gave them the two-game, total-point series 80 to 43.

OTHER WINNERS

The women's senior B title went to Vancouver IXL, who defeated the Hedley team 65 to 23 in the second game of a total-point series at Hedley after winning the first 67 to 10.

Kamloops girls won the intermediate A women's title by defeating Cumberland 20 to 16 at Kamloops in a sudden death game.

Nanaimo won the intermediate B women's title by defeating Vancouver Toots Fountains 26 to 21 in a sudden death affair at Nanaimo.

Arrows made a thriller out of the senior A final in Vancouver with their almost uncanny marksmanship. With Arrows trailing 43 to 45 with 16 seconds to go, Maury Hornsby forced the game into overtime by sinking two free throws to tie the score.

The extra session was just as much of a nip and tuck affair as the earlier stages of the game. Hornsby sank a basket for the first points to give Arrows the lead. Joe Ross followed with a basket for Leafs and Vic Dale tossed in a free throw for Arrows. Ralph Henderson dropped a shot for Leafs in the final minute to end the scoring and give the Vancouver team the ball game.

The night's scoring honors went to Ran Matthison of the Leafs, who made 21 points. Ollie Goldsmith scored 14 for Victoria.

Vancouver—Watson, Beeton 2, Willoughby 6, Bardsley 8, Matthison 2, Wright, Parsons, Ross 3, Henderson 9.

Victoria — Goldsmith 14, Dale 12, McKeachie 10, Piercy, Walker 8, Hornsby 4, Parfitt, Whyte.

Officials — Basil Fands, Vancouver; Bob Macmurchie, Victoria.

THE COAST HOCKEY League would welcome a Victoria pro entry with open arms, in the opinion of Connie King, playing manager of the Seattle Sea Hawks, in the season just concluded.

On a visit to the city with his wife and family, King made that statement today when interviewed and told that application for entry in the circuit would probably be made if the present arena financial drive was a success.

According to the Seattle pucksters' manager, the Coast League did not operate on a financially successful basis last winter . . . because it was only a three-team league composed of players whose faces have been seen by the customers for the last five years. There was nothing new to show the fans, therefore interest fell off considerably. It was just a listlessly plodding league with very little fire, he intimated.

A Victoria entry would enable the loop to take a new lease on life.

"How is that?" we asked King.

"Here's the reason," King said. "The league has to get new, young material for the teams to inject some life into it. As it was last winter new men were difficult to secure as outside players realize a three-team league is not a paying proposition. A fourth club, especially a new strong entry, would remedy the situation.

"If Victoria has a rink by next fall you can induce other teams in the league to hand over a couple of good players from each of their rosters. Then the teams can go out and find some good, fresh material to complete their line-ups, and they can be got, too, if the prospects for a good financial year are bright," King said.

Vancouver, Portland and Seattle formed last season's set-up. There was some talk, he added, of Spokane coming back into the fold next season, but Victoria would be a more favorable entry, as it would make a shorter traveling circuit, thus cutting down expenses. King said he had also heard reports that Nanaimo was planning to join the pro circuit.

Seattle, he thought, would not go into any three-team arrangement again. A league must have a well-balanced set-up with close competition to get fan support.

When told Greater Victoria's population was estimated at 75,000 and asked if he thought the city could support a pro team, King said:

"I think this city is big enough to handle such a proposition. Besides your younger crowd who are eager to see the game revived, there are lots of prairie people here who would relish the prospects of seeing a sport they have been used to watching back home.

"If you promote it right, you can make money out of pro hockey. Skating alone is a big paying proposition. Take Spokane, for instance. The first year they opened the rink there they made $28,000 out of skating alone."

Interest in skating had increased considerably during recent years. This was probably induced to a certain extent by movie ice spectacles.

One way for Victoria to get help to finance a pro unit here was to secure a working agreement with one of the National League clubs. The only drawback to that was that if players show anything like being good, the big clubs grab them, King said.

He estimated it cost $1,000 a week to operate a pro team properly. This would mean $20,000 over a season.

He was glad to see the move to build an arena here. "An arena is a great asset to any city. It's a great place for the younger generation as well as for the older people."

VANCOUVER (CP) — North Shore United moved another notch closer to the league-leading Victoria eleven by blanking St. Saviours 4 to 0 in a Pacific Coast Soccer League match at Con Jones Park, Saturday.

They now have three games to play, compared with Victoria United's two. The two teams will meet in what is predicted to be one of the feature matches of the year, probably on the island in a couple of weeks.

Rugger Final Scoreless Tie

Since their arrival here some months ago, British sailors have carved a name for themselves in the local athletic picture. R.N. teams and individuals have been entered in various types of competition and on at least two occasions to date have carted off coveted pieces of silverware.

Saturday at Macdonald Park the Royal Navy's record was given another fine mark when its intermediate rugby squad held the highly-touted Varsity Engineers to a no-score draw when they battled in a sudden-death final for the Province Cup, emblematic of intermediate oval ball supremacy in B.C.

The Royal Navy lifted the Hayward Cup and the city championship last week and won the ticket into the provincial final. They were also victorious in the Good Friday road races, winning the aggregate trophy.

Another game played at the James Bay enclosure saw Victoria College blank Oak Bay Wanderers 16 to 0 to take possession of the George Jay Cup for the next 12 months. This is an annual sudden-death affair between these two outfits.

RUGGED GAME

The Royal Navy-Varsity Engineers scrap was a rugged bit of oval ball warfare, with both sides scrapping with everything they had to try and break down defences. Neither team could boast the line. But when the final whistle blew after 80 minutes of torrid fighting the scoreboard still registered a goose egg for both sides.

In holding the Engineers scoreless the sailor boys really accomplished something, for the visitors from the mainland finished their season with a record of no defeats. Only three points were scored against them the whole season while they piled up no less than 146 points. The Britishers got off to a late start here but have made great strides since their first exhibition.

Fast-moving, hard-fighting forward lines did most of the attacking, while backfield defence work was nothing short of superb. The Varsity boys held the upper hand in the first half, but the Navy stopped their rushes time and again with neat tackling. The fight was more even in the final session, both teams sharing equally in the attack. But defence lines held strong to the finish to leave a blank scoreboard.

Swift, Navy fullback, suffered an injured leg and was taken off the field in last-half play, leaving his team shorthanded. The fullback work of Jones, R.N., and fine performance of Berry, Navy five-eighths, featured the game.

Giant Indian Wins Mat Bout

"Roll Out the Barrel" sung by wrestling fans greeted 350-pound Big Chief Saunooke, North Carolina wrestler, when he entered the ring at the Army and Navy arena Saturday night for his match with 235-pound Marshall Gregory from Buffalo City.

The Chief had little trouble in dealing with Gregory and disposed of him in the third round when he picked him up and slammed him on the mat several times and finally fell on him. The 350 pounds was too much for Gregory and he was unable to finish the bout.

Pat Meehan, 230 pounds, Edmonton, and Ray Vilmer 220 pounds, St. Louis, battled to a draw with one fall each in a clean, fast bout. Vilmer gained the initial fall in the fourth round with an airplane spin and a body press. Meehan evened the match in the sixth round when he drop-kicked Vilmer as he was coming off the ropes aiming for a body butt at Meehan.

In the preliminary bout Murray Speller defeated George Low with a one-fall advantage.

Trail Lodges Protest

TRAIL, B.C. (CP)—A. W. (Gus) MacDonald, president of the British Columbia Amateur Hockey Association, announced today that the B.C. A.H.A. had protested the victory of Calgary Stampeders in the opening game of the British Columbia-Alberta hockey series.

Stampeders shut out the vaunted Smokies 3 to 0 in impressive style as the best-of-five-game Allan Cup series got under way before 2,000 here Saturday night. The remaining games were to be played in Calgary with the second slated for tomorrow night.

MacDonald said the protest was lodged on the grounds the Stampeders used five imports who played on teams outside Alberta last season. The C.H.A. transfer rule is that only four imports may be used on a team.

Players involved in the protest, MacDonald said, were Art Rice-Jones, Geraldton, Ont., goaltender; Chuck Millman, Stratford, Ont., and Tommy Dewar, Moose Jaw, Sask., defencemen; Tony Desmarais, Flin Flon, Sask., centre, and Joe Shannon, Nelson, B.C., left wing.

BEAR CATS ADVANCE

PORT ARTHUR (CP)—Port Arthur Bear Cats, 1939 Allan Cup champions, reached the western senior hockey semifinal by beating Winnipeg Rifles 4 to 0 here Saturday night to end the two-of-three Manitoba-Thunder Bay playoff in two games. Cats won the first game 6 to 0.

EASTERN GAMES

Six teams remained in the running today for the eastern Canadian senior hockey championship and a chance to play for the Allan Cup, the most prized trophy of the ice game in the Dominion.

Victories for Sydney Millionaires, Montreal Royals and Sherbrooke Red Raiders sent three teams to the sidelines during the week-end, although Hull Volants, Sydney's victims, have a protest on file that, if upheld, likely will bring them back into the playdowns.

Californians Wallop Reps

VANCOUVER, B.C. (CP)—University of California rode roughshod over a Vancouver Rep fifteen here Saturday to win the second and final game of their Vancouver invasion, 24 to 6.

A decidedly improved club from that which dropped an 11 to 6 verdict to University of British Columbia in the first game Wednesday, the Californians were held fairly even in the first half which ended with them leading, 6 to 3, but they completely dominated play in the second.

Bill Palmer fell on the ball as it dribbled across the visitors' line for the first try 20 minutes after the game started. Jack Wight failed to convert and the Reps had to be content with three points.

Three minutes later Pete Youdall barged his way over the Reps' line with four men hanging on to him to tie the score, and in the next 10 minutes took a pass from Paul Holmes for another try. Dick Folmer missed both conversions.

Will Rogers scored on a 40-yard run for California in the second half and Folmer converted, and five minutes later Ted Staffler added another try which Folmer missed for the extra points.

Jack Wight scored Reps' last three points on a penalty kick, but it was only a signal for the Bears of California to start rolling, and in the last 10 minutes Youdall raced across the Vancouver goal line for two tries on passes by Al Lindeburg and Holmes. Both were converted by Folmer.

Westerns Win

Vancouver Westerns are British Columbia senior A women's basketball champions. Saturday night at the Willows Sports Centre they trimmed Palm Dairy, local titleholders, for the second night by a score of 40 to 32. Westerns won the opening game Friday, 51 to 25, and copped the series by a total-point score of 91 to 57.

Westerns succeeded Vancouver Shores as provincial monarchs.

Palm girls provided much better opposition for the visitors in the second game. With Lou Sparks firing home 16 points to lead the attack the locals held Westerns to a 14 to 14 tie in the first half. In the third quuarter the Vancouver girls really went to town tossing in 12 points to four for Palms. Each club was good for 14 points in the final period.

Jessie Gillias was high scorer for Westerns with 17 points.

Wally Stipe, Victoria, and Gordon Gillespie, Vancouver, refereed.

Teams and scores follow:

Louis Works Hard

Tough on Paychek

GREENWOOD LAKE, N.Y. (AP)—It seems Joe Louis reads the newspapers.

Some weeks ago he read where the boxing experts, after watching him wade through 15 rounds with Arturo Godoy, thought he was something less than terrific. He found out that some of the smart boys believed he was slipping.

So Joe figures he has a bone to pick with the "experts." And he and his handlers tip you off that he's going to pick it clean in Madison Square Garden when he fights Johnny Paychek Friday.

"Yeah," said one of his handlers after he watched Joe raise lumps on a set of sparring partners, "I wouldn't be s'prised at all if Mistah Joe knocks Paychek right back in a lot of laps jes' to show 'em."

The same general idea was conveyed by Jimmy Braddock after looking at Joe's latest workout.

"I've seen Joe work for almost every fight since he beat me three years ago, and I've never seen him more aggressive than he is right now. He figures, if I'm any judge, that he's gonna do a little punching Friday night."

John Roxborough, one half of Joe's managerial board, says that Louis is really "peeved" at what the experts said about him.

"That's why he asked to work five days a week in training for Paychek," Roxborough disclosed. "For previous fights he only had four days. He's set on showing 'em."

Boston Whips Rangers; Detroit Beats Amerks

Bruneteau Is Star Player In 3-1 Win

DETROIT (CP)—Safely past the first hurdle, Detroit Red Wings headed today for the second barrier in the path manager Jack Adams hopes will lead to the Stanley Cup and a return to the glory of the powerful Wings clubs of a few seasons ago.

The Wings, admitted by Adams to be a young squad, brushed by New York Americans last night with a 3 to 1 victory that sent them into the semifinal playoff Leafs, first game of the Detroit-round against Toronto Maple Toronto best-of-three series will be played in Toronto tomorrow night.

Considered by Adams to be the best Detroit club since the titular seasons of 1935-36 and 1936-37, the Wings took the deciding game of their series against Americans by coming through with two goals in the third period after the teams split a pair of counters in the opening session. Wings took the first game 2 to 1, but lost the second in New York 5 to 4.

Modere Cullen Bruneteau one of the few left-overs from the championship team of three and four years ago, scored the winning goal against Americans last night and helped in the one that put the game beyond recall.

Bruneteau's winning goal came in the eighth minute of the last session, after Cecil Dillon had scored for the Wings early in the first period, and Holey Smith had tallied to even the score near the end of that frame. Kenny Kilrea got the third Detroit goal three minues and 15 seconds from the end of the game with Bruneteau drawing an assist.

WAITED FOR BREAKS

Throughout the contest the Americans—with only 12 men in their line-up and with some of these casualties—were content to lay back awaiting for the breaks. But the breaks never came and Red Dutton's gallant men were forced to bow out.

With Americans out the same four clubs that played in the Stanley Cup semifinals last season are in the hunt again. Last season the Maple Leafs topped the Wings, but lost to Boston Bruins, who had defeated New York Rangers in their semifinal series. Bruins are ahead in their present series with the Rangers, while Leafs are favored to eliminate the Wings.

SUMMARY

First period—1, Detroit, Dillon (Abel), 5.18; 2, Americans, Smith (Anderson), 18.39. Penalty: Conacher.

Second period—Scoring, none. Penalties: Egan, J. Stewar.

Third period — 3, Detroit, Bruneteau (Abel, Goodfellow), 7.33; 4, Detroit, Kilrea (Bruneteau), 16.45. Penalties: Murray, Egan, Grosso.

Victoria City Beats Garrison

Manager Charley Lewis' Victoria City soccer team advanced to the final of the Jackson Cup knockout series yesterday at Bullen Park by handing the Garrison eleven a 3 to 1 defeat.

City will meet the winner of the Victoria West-Esquimalt match in the final.

Lewis' boys sagged the hemp twice in the first half and both sides beat the netminders once in the final canto.

The final verdict might have been reversed had the soldiers a clearer shooting eye. They had a good share of the play, but their attempts at goal were erratic. A number of good opportunities were also wasted by the City, but their marksmanship was generally better.

The opening tally came on a neat play between Harry Holness and veteran Scotty Robinson, the latter heading the former's cross between the sticks. A prolonged Garrison attack followed, but poor shooting cheated them of goals. Before the half arrived the City made it 2 to 0. The second goal was the result of a beautiful corner kick by Harry Holness, which curved nicely and found the goal without assistance.

Play was fairly even at the outset of the second half. At the 15-minute mark, after City goalie Stewardson had saved from Alec Murray, the same player came back to score via the head on Terry Peers' set-up giving the Garrison their only goal. After the City had blown two splendid chances to score later in the session they finally bagged their final goal. Les Bradley, Daryl Bissell, Holness and Robinson figured in this play, the latter polishing the playoff by scoring.

VICTORIA WINS

The Greater Victoria High Schools' soccer team, coached by Herbert Cumberbirch, gained the final of the British Columbia High School championship series Saturday afternoon by defeating Ladysmith High School, 5 to 0, at Athletic Park. The local aggregation meets Vancouver in the provincial final on the mainland.

McCorkall and Green accounted for the first-half tallies. Fuller scored the next two goals in second-half play and Green completed the scoring later.

In the opener on the Athletic Park program, Saturday league All-stars defeated the Army eleven, 3 to 2. Alex Ross scored all the winners' goals. Terry Peers scored the Army's two markers.

High School teams follow:

Ladysmith — Pelfo, Cathcart, Alexander, Wrean, Gourley, Kerr, Syrotuck, Jansch, Copp, Popovich, Michael, Yoshida and deLucia.

Victoria — Brodie, Brookman, Hunt, Donaghy, Kennedy, Palliser, Popham, Green, Fuller, McCorkall and Smith.

Victoria Loses in Grass Hockey Match

Vancouver Pro-Recs women's grass hockey team won a provincial championship match from the Victoria Grass Hockey Club representatives Saturday afternoon at Hollywood Park. The score was 3 to 0.

The visitors scored twice in the first half and once in the second session. The visitors were the smarter team, being faster and packing plenty of punch in the attack. A game fight was put up by Victoria, but a stubborn defence stopped them every time.

Patrick Boys Score Pair Of Counters

BOSTON (CP) — A superior brand of hockey, plus Eddie Wiseman's sharpshooting, gave Boston Bruins a 4 to 3 victory over New York Rangers last night and a one-game lead in their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

Wiseman, obtained in the trade for Eddie Shore, Boston's hero of all its other playoffs, countered the first and last Bruins goals and the others were provided by little Bobby Bauer and Roy Conacher.

Eddie's second goal resulted from a hard shot that struck goalie Dave Kerr on the chest. He had come out about five feet to make the stop and the puck bounced over his head and dribbled into his cage for the goal that decided the game.

Rangers' first tally, which put them in a 1 to 1 tie, was Frankie Brimsek's own fault. He had stopped a vicious shot by Kilby MacDonald and long after the puck had been cleared from his zone he was caught holding Lynn Patrick's stick.

That foul called for a quarter-ice faceoff in Boston territory and out of it came a goal as Clint Smith batted the puck to MacDonald and the latter passed back to Murray Patrick who rifled a 50-footer through Brimsek. Early in the third, Babe Pratt pulled Rangers up to 3 to 2 by driving in a shot from the blue line as Brimsek's vision was blocked.

LYNN GETS ONE

Lynn Patrick, oldest son of the Rangers' manager, tried to rally his teammates by polishing off a beautiful triple play, in combination with Clint Smith and Alf Pike.

The teams will meet for the fourth time in New York on Tuesday and will return here Thursday. If other games are needed to decide the best of seven series, they will be played in New York Saturday, with the final scheduled here for next Sunday.

The Rangers won the first game in New York last Tuesday 4 to 0, Boston tying the count by a 4 to 2 score here Thursday night.

TWILIGHT RECITAL

Easter music was given at the twilight recital yesterday afternoon at the First Baptist Church by that church's choir, under the direction of B. W. Hodgson with Jack Smith at the organ.

Three of the outstanding anthems were "Through the Day" and "O Sacred Head," by Bach and Tye's "Gethsemane."

Soloists were Miss Hannah Barr, who sang Handel's "He Was Despised," and Mrs. McIntosh who rendered "Easter Morn." Miss E. Bridges was heard in Shelley's "The Resurrection" and W. J. Jones sang "Forward to Christ," by O'Hara.

The Misses E. and B. Jones were heard in a duet and also sang in the quartette with Misses I. and J. Atchison.

The offertory was a composition of Mr. Smith's. It was entitled "Easter Flowers," and was originally dedicated to the choir of Hanson Baptist Church, Portland.

Next Sunday the Masonic Male Voice Choir will give the program at the twilight recital.

Publicity Head Makes Contacts

"I am convinced from what I heard and saw on my travels that, lacking some unforseen circumstance, 1940 will surpass any other year in tourist travel to all parts of Canada," George I. Warren, Victoria and island publicity commissioner, said on his return this morning from a trip to the prairies and eastern Canada in the interests of the city's tourist trade.

Blizzards and snowstorms raged in prairie and eastern cities during his visit and Mr. Warren proudly drew attention to Victoria weather reports, showing Vancouver Island was enjoying splendid spring weather.

At Montreal Mr. Warren conferred with officials of the C.P.R., C.N.R., the Quebec government tourist bureau and the Montreal Tourist Bureau with a view to creating interprovincial travel due to the heavy discount of the Canadian dollar in the United States. He said the C.P.R. has been carrying out a newspaper advertising campaign in big eastern dailies featuring Victoria as a winter and spring recreation area.

At Ottawa the commissioner met Leo Dolan, director of the Canadian Travel Bureau, whom he induced to visit Victoria around the middle of next month.

Mr. Warren held conferences in Toronto with officials of the Ontario government tourist bureau, the Toronto Convention Bureau and executive officials of the Canadian Press.

At Winnipeg the commissioner conferred with heads of both railways and the Manitoba Tourist Bureau. He wished to compliment the C.P.R. and C.N.R. for the efforts they are making to publicize Victoria and the coast, not only through special rates but through publicity and advertising throughout the prairie provinces.

Mr. Warren learned the efforts of the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, on its program of tourist advertising, is being favorably commented on throughout the east. Newspapers have used it editorially, he said, to show what can be accomplished by an enterprising tourist bureau to attract tourists.

IN MEMORIAM

"Four years have passed since that sad day
When one we loved was called away.
God took her home, it was His will,
But in our hearts she liveth still."
In loving memory of Thelma, who passed away March 25, 1936. Fondly remembered by Daddy and Mother, Robert and Gloria, Shawnigan Lake, B.C.

FAMOUS CHOIR TO SING FOSTER SONGS

The famous Hall Johnson Choir is featured in 20th Century-Fox's "Swanee River," the story of Stephen C. Foster, which comes tomorrow to the Dominion Theatre. Don Ameche, Andrea Leeds and Al Jolson head the cast.

The choir sings many of Foster's most famous songs, including "Old Black Joe," in the Technicolor film. Hall Johnson himself wrote the arrangements for the songs sung by his choir. In addition he wrote an original river chant and a work song for inclusion in "Swanee River" to serve as background music, for Foster was said to have been inspired for some of his music by the Negro river chanteys.

ESPIONAGE PLOT ON PLAZA BILL

"I Was a Spy," the curren production at the Plaza Theatre, starring Madeleine Carroll with Herbert Marshall, and featuring also Conrad Veidt, is Gaumont's adaptation of the famous memoirs of Martha McKenna, famed secret agent for the Allied forces during the World War. It is directed by Victor Saville with the consultation aid of the author herself.

Miss Carroll portrays the role played by Mrs. McKenna in actuality. Herbert Marshall is cast as a daring Allied agent, her partner in espionage, nd Conrad Veidt plays a German officer. Other prominent members of the cast are Gerald Du Maurier, Edmund Gwynn, Donald Calthrop, Eva Moore, Nigel Bruce, May Agate, Martita Hunt, George Merritt and Anthony Bushell.

'Pinocchio' Booked At the Capitol

Walt Disney's second de luxe full-length Technicolor production is "Pinocchio," an adaptation of the story beloved by grown-ups and children alike, which was originally written by Carlo Lorenzini under the pen name of C. Collodi.

The story of "Pinocchio" concerns an old woodcarver named Geppetto who creates a little puppet boy of pine. Because the kindly old man loves children and has never had any of his own, the Blue Fairy brings the marionette to life to be a son to him. But Pinocchio has to prove himself worthy, and the story concerns the many scrapes and adventures he undergoes before this is accomplished.

This R.K.O. Radio production will start Thursday at the Capitol Theatre.

CAPITOL THEATRE

The most prominent supporting cast ever accorded Deanna Durbin will be seen with the singing star in Universal's "It's a Date," now at the Capitol Theatre.

Kay Francis and Walter Pidgeon are important "names" in a cast that includes a dozen outstanding featured players.

'NURSE CAVELL' AT OAK BAY

The vivid ordeal of one of the world's greatest benefactors and humanitarians is depicted in "Nurse Edith Cavell," starring Anna Neagle, foremost British star, now showing at Oak Bay Theatre.

Adhering closely to the facts of the sensational case, the picturization is laid in Brussels and Belgium during the Great War. It is here that the benign English nurse served as head of a hospital right up to the time the field-grey avalanche took possession of the city.

'PACK UP YOUR TROUBLES' AT RIO

The Ritz Brothers seem to be a form of comedy bonus to Jane Withers' fans, for 20th Century-Fox has featured them in Jane's latest starring film, "Pack Up Your Troubles," to add to the hilarity. The boys join forces with Jane and the result is a shambles of shenanigans that's funnier than anything either Jane or the Ritzes has ever given us before. Lynn Bari, Joseph Schildkraut, Stanley Fields, Fritz Leiber and Lionel Royce are featured in the cast. The film is now at the Rio Theatre.

How to Overcome Piles And Rectal Soreness
If you are annoyed with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not neglect the same or run the risk of an operation. Any itching, soreness or painful passage of stool, is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once. For this purpose get from Modern Pharmacy or Cunningham Drug Stores or any druggist, a package of Hemroid and use as directed. This formula, which is used internally, quickly relieves the itching and soreness and aids in healing the sore, tender spots. Hemroid is highly recommended, is easy to use and it seems the height of folly for anyone to risk an operation when a simple remedy, which is so pleasant to use may be had at such a reasonable cost.

Young People's Drama Festival

Five plays will be presented in the sixth annual Drama Festival sponsored by the Victoria and Lower Island Young Peoples' Union, to be held on April 2 and 3, at Central Junior High School at 8.

H. S. Hurn will be adjudicator and Roy Goldfinch stage manager, assisted by Roy Hundleby.

On the first night Centennial Y.P.S. will present the comedy, "Orchids for Marie," directed by A. Veales, with Irene and Sylvia Birkett, Eleanor Brooke, Edna Ford, Catherine Almond, Norman Land, Alfred Kerley and Jim McCague in the cast.

Belmont Society will present a religious drama entitled "The Gift," with Helen McLellan, Norma Fitzsimmons, Helen Parker, Arthur Zala, Douglas Bailey and Bruce McLellan taking part.

A farce, "Luncheon for Six," will be presented by Metropolitan Y.P.S., directed by Mrs. T. Hammond, with Dorothy Walker, Elaine McKay, Thelma Murgatroyd, Les Priestly, Henry Bird and Art Cooper.

On Wednesday evening Belmont Society will present their play, scenes from Shakespeare's "As You Like It," which won the provincial award at Greater Vancouver Festival, for exhibition. Miss Dorothy Davies is the director and the cast includes Kathleen Henderson, Helen McLellan, Douglas Bailey and Sydney Blaney.

The best play from the first night will be repeated for exhibition and First United Society will present the comedy, "Someone for Bunny," with Eileen Hanna, Rita Millhouse, Glennys Hale, Art Ridland and Ted Myers taking part.

'LIVE AND LEARN' ATLAS FEATURE

"Live and Learn" might well be altered to "go to the movies and learn," for it is apparent by now that within the last 50 years the films have been offering to their patrons a very literal education. Just how liberal it has been is difficult to determine, for the screen has given lessons in everything from robbing trains to robbing cradles; but now it seems that the motion picture industry is branching out as well into physical education. In Samuel Goldwyn's new production of "Raffles," starring David Niven and Olivia de Havilland, currently showing at the Atlas Theatre, filmgoers will be treated to a course in cricket.

AIR FORCE FILM AT THE CADET

Alexander Korda's "The Lion Has Wings," a full-length feature which dramatizes the story behind England's defence measures, is now showing at the Cadet Theatre. "The Lion Has Wings" has a cast which includes Ralph Richardson and Merle Oberon.

The central theme of "The Lion Has Wings" revolves round the thrilling and exciting exploits of the Royal Air Force, modern winged Mercuries of the present Great War.

Woodbury Plans New Odyssey

NEW YORK (AP)—Still a bit "stiff in the joints" and bearing salt water scars from a 2,600-mile Pacific Ocean adventure in an outrigger canoe only 17 inches wide, the "South Sea Skipper" is planning still another perilous voyage.

The skipper is Capt. U. A. Woodbury II, scion of a distinguished Vermont family. For most of the last 25 years—since he was 20—he has done things which he admits lead his friends to think he's crazy.

Before learning of his plans for his next venture, glance at a few notes of his latest odyssey:

He and two young companions sailed from South Point, Hawaii, to Samoa, 2,600 miles, in a 100-year-old outrigger he bought in the Hawaiian Islands.

The craft, a one-master, was 29 feet long and about as wide as an eight-column newspaper page.

Rain fell on each of the 34 days of the trip and the last 20 days were floodless (except for two fish and the barnacles off the boat's hull.)

Capt. Woodbury said it did not take the adventurers long to cultivate a taste for barnacles, which they got by braving the shark-infested waters and scraping them off the boat while swimming.

Already the captain—grandson of the late Governor U. A. Woodbury of Vermont — is making plans for the coming voyage, to start in July.

"My boat is being built now on the Kona coast of Hawaii," he says, "and by comparison the one we used last year will seem like the Queen Elizabeth. It will be an 18-footer outrigger only 12 inches wide.

"I'm going to sail her from Los Angeles to Honolulu—2,207 miles—and probably will do it alone but I may take one man with me. However, those 20 hungry days will not be repeated. I'm going to have my yacht trail me with plenty of food."

Capt. Woodbury, following his voyage from Hawaii to Samoa in a 100-year-old outrigger, passed through Victoria on a Canadian-Australasian liner, en route home.

12 A-H VESSELS TO BE WITHDRAWN

SEATTLE—Effective within a few days the American-Hawaiian Steamship Company will take 12 ships out of the regular intercoastal service and presumably charter them out in general trades.

Through this the fleet operating to the North Atlantic range of ports will number 16, giving sailings every 10 days from Puget Sound instead of weekly as at present. In the South Atlantic service six ships will operate, making sailing intervals every 14 days instead of 11 days.

In California the general interval will be every five days instead of two a week as previously.

The action follows that already taken by other lines, since nearly twice the returns may be obtained by chartering vessels out than in the intercoastal trade and at the same time there is no "grief" attached.

B.C. Fisheries Doubled

OTTAWA (CP) — British Columbia fisheries all but doubled their production value last January compared with the same month a year ago, the Dominion Department of Fisheries disclosed in figures issued here.

Approximately 852,000 hundredweights of fish of all varieties, valued at $270,500, were landed in British Columbia during January, while in January, 1939, the catch of 462,000 bushels was valued at $137,300.

Most of the increase was due to the herring catch of 820,000 hundredweight, valued at $215,000. The January catch in 1939 was 438,000 hundredweight, with a value of $90,000.

French to Resume Atlantic Flights

PARIS (CP-Havas)—The newspaper Le Matin reported today that Air France will resume this spring its trial flights for regular service across the North Atlantic.

The choice of plane, the paper said, has fallen on the "Potez 161," which was tried out in a smaller model and has now been built into a 40-ton airliner with six Hispano-Suiza motors generating 6,000 horsepower and capable of 205 miles an hour.

The plane is expected to make the flight in 18 hours on a non-stop schedule.

Le Matin said if the trials prove satisfactory, more planes will be built and a regular service inaugurated by the summer of 1941.

FISHERY OFFICERS TO HUNT BEAR

OTTAWA (CP) — Fishery patrol officers on the British Columbia coast must qualify as hunters, the Dominion Department of Fisheries reports, in order to deal with bears which feed off the salmon runs during spawning periods.

Officers have been instructed to kill bears found fishing for spawning salmon in creeks and rivers. Last year two patrolmen and an inspector killed 72 bears on Queen Charlotte Islands, bagging 39 at one point alone.

Easter Travel Was Excellent

Excellent travel business over the Easter week-end was reported today by transportation companies and hotels.

Steamship records and hotel registrations indicated a considerable movement of holiday visitors from Vancouver and Seattle, the influx as well as the exodus, being swelled by the special rates offered on all boats.

Hundreds of people who bought cheap transportation to the mainland commencing Thursday were beginning to drift back to the city today and tonight's boats from Vancouver and Seattle will be crowded with homeward-bound holidaymakers.

A large number of automobiles were handled by the gulf ferries over the week-end.

Many skiing devotees who traveled from Victoria to Port Angeles for the skiing at Deer Park arrived back in the city today after an exhilarating adventure on the snow-clad mountain slopes across the straits.

The Easter travel volume, in the view of local transportation men, augurs well for the anticipated record travel throughout the summer.

Eastern Canadians thronging the Victoria hotels reveled in the bright sunshine which featured the Easter holiday here.

WINTRY IN EAST

NEW YORK (AP)—The wintry weather that chilled Easter promenaders from Montreal to Dixie held over today with little relief in sight.

The Delaware and Hudson Railroad Express Laurentian from Montreal to New York, was freed after being stalled nine hours by snowdrifts near St. Edouard, Que.

Snow, ranging from one to eight inches in depth, extended from Arkansas across Tennessee into the Carolinas and down into north Georgia and Alabama.

New York City and state had the coldest Easter Sunday on record.

GREAT U.S. CLAIMS FOR NEW MOTOR

NEW YORK (AP) — Development of the world's most efficient aircraft engine, which produces a horsepower for approximately every pound of its weight, has been announced by the Wright Aeronautical Corporation, of Patterson, N.J., one of the United States' pioneer airplane motor manufacturers.

Just licensed by the U.S. government, the engine is rated at 1,200 horsepower for takeoff.

The significance of the announcement lies in the fact that engineers the world over have been striving for years to fashion motors of extremely light weight for both commercial and military use.

Arthur Nott of the Wright organization said the rating of the new engine is 100 horsepower more than is developed by any other United States-manufactured air-cooled engine of nine-cylinder construction. The efficiency of the engine was disclosed by the fact that Europe has no air-cooled motor of equal horsepower, and no other American-made aircraft engine can compare with it for horsepower-per-pound.

Inquest Ordered

NANAIMO (CP)—An inquest will be held Wednesday into the death of Herman Martin Carlson of Ladysmith, whose body was found early Sunday on the roadside near the Ladysmith ball park.

There were cuts about the head and shoulders and police theorized he either was struck by an automobile which failed to stop, or else fell from a car in which he was riding. He was last seen alive at a dance at Oyster Bay Saturday night.

Carlson, 49, was a logger who came to Ladysmith 30 years ago from Finland. He worked at Fanny Bay, B.C., and is survived by his widow, a son, two sisters and a brother.

Letters to the Editor

ROBERT CASSIDY, K.C., ON THE FEDERAL ELECTION

To the Editor:—I never have been a political supporter of Mr. Mackenzie King, but I am going to vote for Mr. Mayhew and have told him so.

The British Empire is in the throes of a desperate struggle for its existence, and all other considerations must give way to winning the war.

All Canadian parties and candidates, no doubt, have the same desire, but it is plain that it is hopeless to contend against the absolute unity of purpose and effective joint action of the combination of bandits who are threatening the destruction of the British Empire unless those to whom its preservation is committed present the same solidarity. To that end in the field our action is in the hands of one man, the French Generalissimo, as we had Foch in the last war in supreme control. In the British cabinet the complete execution and control of the Prime Minister is secured by the demand of resignations from cabinet ministers who, though perfectly loyal, endanger unity in which alone lies strength. Thus the resignations of Eden and Hore-Belisha, while heart and soul with the purpose indicate. The particular mode in which Canada takes its part in imperal matters appears from the statement in the Statesman's Year Book, 1939:

"The present position of Canada was defined at the Imperial Conference in 1926. The self-governing Dominions are autonomous communities within the British Empire, equal in status, united by a common allegiance to the crown. The Dominion has its own representatives in the U.S.A., Great Britain, France and Japan, and became a member of the League of Nations in 1927.

War situations change from day to day and each day, putting aside all that went before, it is necessary to meet the danger of the moment. Those in charge of the battle for us, both militarily and politically, must be in position to require from Canada, and all the others, necessary executive and legislative action. It can only be given by a government, all the members of which are in accord. I cannot understand how that accord could possibly exist with any government which Dr. Manion could possibly get together out of the heterogeneous and in all respects discordant elements at his disposal, and therefor I am slupporting the present government.

ROBERT CASSIDY.

C.C.F. CONSISTENCY

To the Editor:—I would like to deal with the criticism of C.C.F. speakers in your article on the editorial page on Saturday's times. The attempt is to show that Mr. Grantham is demanding a peace conference and Mr. Winch says we have to carry on with a war economy. These are two separate and distinct propositions and on the meagre evidence quoted hardly enough to base a charge of "contradiction" on. In Mr. Grantham's suggestion of a peace conference we have basically the knowledge that only by appearing to prosecute the war can the reactionary leaders of all the democratic countries avoid the imminent question of, to quote your article, "international democracy" and a "new program designed to eliminate present social evils arising from malajustments of the balance between production and distribution and the inevitable selfishness of the competitive system."

As long as we permit the present leaders, Chamberlain, Daladier, King, or Manion, etc., to determine our foreign policy, you can rest assured that a real peace conference, including belligerents and neutrals and socialists, will not have an opportunity to deal with the economic realities, behind the present conflict.

Naturally, it is obvious that Hitler is not the man with whom to negotiate a peace and from what we are told he is all-powerful in Germany at present. But we must remember that Hitler gained power from the German people because he told them that the Allies in the last war dominated the wealth of the world; that Britain's power depended on the armed might of the British navy and that to gain economic justice for the German nation they must also have military power, and realistically the Germans proceeded on this premise.

The way out of this impasse is not as the Liberals and Conservatives say, to quote Mr. Brown as reported in the Times of March 2, 1940, "the present war would not end war any more than the last one did, and Canada would need a strong man at the helm when peace was made to see that the Germans were put in their place for good, the 'Brute of the Baltic crushed' . . ." The only way, and it is not an easy way, is to demote our own capitalists and to get the fact across to the German people that we are willing to help them also to achieve economic justice. If Canada can spend $1,000,000 a day on destructive war then we can afford to spend $500,000 a day on an effort to reach the ear of the German people and remove the strongest argument in Herr Goebel's propaganda. But it does depend on the internal and external economic policy of Canada and the Allies.

Now then, you refer to Mr. Winch and Canada's war economy. Mr. Winch knows and undoubtedly you do, that Canadian industry and mines and farms are leaning heavily on war purchases. That the investor in Canada is putting his money into "War Babies." That is the reason that the old-line parties are so keen on the war. But it has nothing to do with the C.C.F. attitude on our war economy. The process of extricating the nations of the world from the present mess is going to be difficult and the change over from a war economy will only be started when we have socialists at the helm and in a parallel development with other socialist countries. But this does not mean that the C.C.F. would not start immediately to readjust our economy or to work for a peace conference.

You are very kind when you suggest that we strengthen our post-war position by parroting Mr. Chamberlain, crying "Stop Hitler!" We have indeed at Munich and always advocated policies which would stop Hitler. But at no time, and the present is no exception, at no time have these policies been accepted or implemented by the Canadian government or the British government. These two administrations have been romantically following the imperialist idea that you could have your cake and eat it too. The C.C.F. have always stood for collective action to prevent aggression. British foreign policy during the last 20 years has never achieved collective action through the League of Nations. This present conflict is not an example of collective action. Canadian industrialists have made huge profits out of trade in war materials with Japan, a proven aggressor of even more hideous a type than the Nazis. The C.C.F. have joined in petitions to the Mackenzie King administration to embargo war materials to Japan but this has never been done.

If you want some edifying reading look up the Manchester Guardian report on "The Rape of Nanking."

The C.C.F. stand is perfectly consistent. We advocate a realistic method of achieving that result which all Canadian people, apart from the profiteers, desire.

As Captain Liddel Hart says, "no stretch of the imagination can find on either side now the potential means of victory in a total war." The old-line parties, however, can only parrot, "the efficient prosecution of the war."

KENNETH McALLISTER.

HOW MANY CONSERVATIVES WILL VOTE?

To the Editor:—I am convinced, after what I have heard, that thousands of Conservatives will at the forthcoming election vote Liberal for perhaps the first time. The sensible business man and intelligent worker will not be influenced by the accusations and criticisms directed at the King administration or any member of the cabinet.

The impression prevails that Dr. Manion is not a big enough man for the job. Nor has he with him colleagues who can measure up to the personal and administrative standards of the members of the King government. The average man is of the opinion that this is no time to change governments, particularly in view of the paucity of able men who are associated with the leader of the opposition. No matter what its opponents may say, the government has carried on the war in a manner entitling it to the appreciation of the electorate. It lost no time once war was declared in getting the ablest men available to take charge of special war activities. The leader of the government and the Minister of National Defence declared that no favoritism would be tolerated. The expedition shown by the War Supply Board proves that the government was aware of its responsibilities and prepared to carry them out. It has.

Quite a number of temperamentally Tory business men are satisfied that no government could have accomplished any more than the one headed by Prime Minister King.

Mr. King's policies are based upon sound principles. He is not politically impulsive. He does a lot of thinking before he takes a decisive step that may be fraught with serious consequences. Yet, when war was declared he and his colleagues acted with commendable promptness. Making comparisons with the last war does not serve any useful purpose. In the present conflict the closest co-operation with the imperial government is the first essential. That co-operation has been given in the fullest measure. No complaint has come from the British government of a lack of diligence on the part of the Canadian authorities.

The burdens borne by Mr. King and his colleagues are very heavy. They are entitled to our thanks and gratitude. The workers will not soon forget that it was the Liberal Party, led by Mr. King, that influenced old age pensions and other beneficial legislation. Mr. Cahan, the Secretary of State in the Bennett government, opposed this measure of justice for our fellow citizens who reached the age of 70 years. We must not forget that Dr. Manion wears the mantle of R. B. Bennett, who pledged himself to cure unemployment or perish in the attempt. He perished all right. One expects criticism from an opposition, but it should be constructive and an alternative policy offered. Dr. Manion may be a good physician, but he is hardly qualified to treat and prescribe for the Dominion at this time. Tried and experienced leadership is the first requisite of a government engaged in the carrying on of a war that will call for stupendous sacrifice.

In dissolving Parliament as he did, Mr. King acted with a courage, promptness and sagacity that prove beyond any doubt his unexcelled qualities of statesmanship and leadership.

It is hardly likely that the people of this country will soon forget that Mr. Bennett, during his first and last term of office, added $1,000,000,000 to the national debt, and he was supposed to be a good business man and master of finance.

Speaking for myself as a humble layman, I prefer King, Ralston, Lapointe, Howe and Rogers to any group that Dr. Manion would have to choose as his colleagues. As for the best brains in Canada, they are presently employed helping Mr. King to efficiently administer the affairs of the Dominion.

Wheat

WINNIPEG (CP) — Intermarket spreading contributed support to boost wheat futures prices on Winnipeg Grain Exchange today. Further buying strength followed advances at Chicago.

Quotations closed ⅝ to ¾ higher than Saturday's finish, May at 90⅛, July 91¼ and October 92⅞.

Traders in Winnipeg pit were selling stocks in American wheat markets and buying futures on Winnipeg exchange.

No Canadian wheat was reported sold for export over the week-end. Dealings in cash grain were scarce with good demand reported.

In coarse grain futures pit rye experienced southern support, oats was in demand by exporters and domestic interests, and flax rose on speculative buying. Barley was practically neglected and the price remained unchanged but other grain futures prices gained fractionally.

CHICAGO (AP) — An advance of as much as 2 cents a bushel today carried wheat prices to their best level since February 23 and to within less than 3 cents of the mid-December peak which stands as the market's highest in more than two years.

Cold weather and pessimistic crop reports, as well as European war news, were factors behind the upturn.

NEW YORK STOCK EXCHANGE LOSES

NEW YORK (AP)—Reporting it was in the red again last year, the New York Stock Exchange today discussed its troubles as a Wall Street landlord, blaming real estate for a major part of the loss.

Before the 1929 crash the exchange expanded its real estate holdings in the downtown financial district with the idea of enlarging the trading floor.

The depression and shrinkage in trading changed the situation. Now the exchange is thinking of hanging a "for sale" sign on some of the property.

With 40 per cent of the space occupied by outside tenants and 15 per cent of the rentable area vacant, a cost analysis showed an estimated loss last year of $394,501 on "building investment and operation."

The consolidated net loss of the exchange and its affiliated companies for 1939 amounted to $1,149,373 compared with a loss of $1,548,417 in 1938 after allowing $654,726 for depreciation.

Youth Killed On Interurban Train

VANCOUVER (CP) — Robert W. Kingston, 15, was injured fatally today when struck by a street car as he leaned out the window of a city-bound interurban railway car.

"He wah hit by a street car going in other direction," said C. Freeman, one of young Kingston's companions in the vestibule of the interurban. With another youth, Wilfred Evans, 15, they were on their way from their homes in nearby Burnaby to spend the holiday at Lynn Valley, in North Vancouver.

The motorman of the car on which the accident took place was not notified until he had traveled another two blocks. Apparently the driver of the outbound car was unaware of what had happened.

The boy, son of Albert H. Kingston, electric railway repairman, was dead when taken to a hospital.

PITTSBURGH (AP)—The aluminium Company of America cut its price today for aluminum ingot from 20 cents to 19 cents a pound and adjusted prices downward on a majority of fabricated products. The new prices become effective immediately.

The reduction is the first price change since March, 1937, when aluminum was increased 1 cent a pound from the 19 cent rate in effect from April, 1935. Previously the price had been 21 cents a pound. Aluminum is of primary importance to the aircraft industry.

Radio Broadcast Heard at Sea in 1906

From the wireless telegraph, the radio sprang—but it did not spring all at once! In my study of early radio history, three men stand out as main pioneers. They are Dr. J. A. Fleming, Prof. Reginald A. Fessenden and Dr. Lee DeForest. All three were at work on the radio problem in early years of the present century.

Fleming, a British scientist, who was among the pioneers of radio.

Dr. Fleming, a British scientist, helped Marconi in the test which sent a wireless message across the Atlantic in 1901. He stayed in England and flashed signals which were heard by Marconi in Newfoundland.

Dr. Fleming made changes in a light bulb which Edison, for another reason, had tested 20 years before. The changes brought about the so-called "Fleming valve," a vacuum tube. To this day we have tubes in radio receiving sets, though they are not just the same as Fleming's.

Professor Fessenden of the University of Pittsburgh also played a big part in the early radio. In 1902 he obtained a patent for what he called the "hot wire barretter." This was a small electric bulb with a very fine wire. One of his helpers made a change which greatly improved it. The purpose of the "barretter" was to capture the tones of the human voice.

Fessenden's early trials were filled with troubles. Working with telephones hooked up to wireless stations, he found his voice "drowned" by noisy wireless sparks.

That did not make Fessenden give up. He worked hard to find a better way to send tones of the voice by wireless. A station with a new king of wave-sending machine was set up at Brant Rock, Mass.

On Christmas Eve, 1906, wireless men on several ocean vessels reported hearing the signals "CQ," meaning "Stand by!" Then they were amazed to hear a human voice coming through their wireless receiving sets. A man made a speech, a woman sang a song, and someone played a violin! Those who listened were asked to write to R. A. Fessenden at Brant Rock.

That broadcast did not make the world wake up to radio. The world in general "slept" until after the end of the World War. Some newspapers and magazines printed notes on "the wireless telephone." The invention was something people wondered about, hardly thinking of it as a real fact.

The 1906 broadcast was "rough," but it pointed the way toward better things. Slowly and carefully, scientists and inventors worked to send music and the human voice through space with more clearness.

HOROSCOPE

Tuesday, March 26

Benefic aspects rule this morning, which should be auspicious for advertising and the learned professions. Labor may revolt under some form of government or capitalistic direction. While the afternoon is favorable to buying and selling there are ill omens which should inspire extreme caution.

Women are today under a configuration that may encourage them to be unreasoning and exacting. Judgment may be warped and domestic conditions unhappy. The stars frown upon romance, and girls may be disappointed in plans for social recreations which include new acquaintances of opposite sex. Self-discipline is strongly recommended, especially for young people pursuing artistic vocations.

Good news from abroad may have a temporary effect upon the stock market this week, but speculation should be avoided. Trade and commerce will be satisfactory as expert advice guides certain government agencies. Travel in Canada from the United States will increase greatly as spring tours west and north gain in popularity.

Taxes continue to cause anxiety. Ways to increase the hidden levies upon property owners will prove more successful than direct methods of adding to the public income.

The United States is to be brought into even closer relations with us than formerly through some commercial negotiations. Warning is given that secret organizations with headquarters in the United States may plot against the Dominion with serious results. Many sojourners from the north will make temporary homes among friends and relatives now citizens of this country. Surprising events are prognosticated for the northwest.

Persons whose birthdate it is have the augury of a year of advancement in financial matters. Young men will have unusual concern regarding romance.

Children born on this day probably will be talented and successful. These subjects of Aries are usually witty and able to write with cleverness. Many teachers and travelers belong to this sign.

Dorothy Dix's Letter Box

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a girl with a great desire to become a teacher, but my parents do not wish me to do so. They want me to stay at home and help Mother with the housework. They have always been kind and good to me, but I think that I have a right to my future and to try to make something of myself. Shall I stay at home, or should I try to persuade them into letting me go to college and be a teacher? A READER.

Answer: A girl of 19 is old enough to know what she wants of life and if you desire to be a teacher your parents should by all means help you to fulfill your ambition. Try to make them understand that if you just stay at home and help Mother with the housework that you only do work that any girl of mediocre intelligence could do and that commands a low wage, whereas if they will help you to become a fine teacher you can fill a high and honorable position in the world and command a good salary.

Tories Have No Faith in King

Conservatives of Greater Victoria wound up their federal election campaign Saturday night at the Empire Theatre with a rally in support of Brigadier J. Sutherland Brown, their local candidate. Two hundred persons attended.

Reginald Hayward was chairman and the speakers were Howard Green, Conservative candidate in Vancouver South; Herbert Anscomb, M.P.P.; David Grieve Tuckwell and H. P. Roberts of Vancouver. Also on the platform were Dr. J. D. Hunter, M.P.P.; W. H. M. Haldane, president of the Victoria Conservative Association, and Senator and Mrs. R. F. Green.

During the campaign, said Brigadier Brown, he spoke his piece in the open, where everyone could hear. Conservatives had not gone to hotel ballrooms and the suburbs, as the Liberals had done, he commented.

Canada was still unprepared for war, despite Liberal statements to the contrary. The Second Canadian Division was still lacking in equipment and was not yet up to full strength.

The candidate had praise for the personnel of the Canadian Navy, but said the navy was sadly lacking in cruisers and destroyers. Instead it was being offered minesweepers and trawlers.

He criticized the government [illegible] of war veterans, who were willing and anxious to serve the Empire at this time. They could quite easily form the home guard. Coast defences, he said, were still in embryo; the air training plan had been bungled and as a result much valuable time had been lost. Australia had put Canada to shame in many respects, when the responses of both Dominions were compared.

MR. ANSCOMB

Mr. Anscomb bitterly attacked the C.C.F., which he said was the Communist organization in Canada, though many people did not realize that fact. But the rank and file was leaving in shoals, he said.

People in Canada were tired of the King government's incompetence and patronage, he said, and he predicted a sweep from coast to coast in favor of the Conservatives.

Because no supply had been voted in the January three-hour session of Parliament the administration would work with warrants, yet when he was asked to do this to relieve the unemployment problem Mr. King said such a procedure was unconstitutional, Mr. Anscomb said.

MR. GREEN

The paramount need of Canada, in the life and death struggle in which it was now engaged, was courageous leadership, Mr. Green said. Mackenzie King, he said, ignored the offers of co-operation of Dr. Manion and J. S. Woodsworth, the C.C.F. leader. The looks and the action of Mr. King, he said, were those of a man whose nerve and balance were gone.

He criticized the King administration for its stand on the Japanese question in British Columbia; the administration had been afraid to offend Japan. The Japanese, he said, were courageous people and no doubt would admire Canada if a blunt declaration were made on the matter.

"They would have far more respect for us if we told them we could take no more of their people," Mr. Green said.

He criticized the King government for its actions in the League of Nations, recalling how W. A. Riddell had been repudiated by the Prime Minister on his stand regarding oil sanctions against Italy.

MR. TUCKWELL

Mr. Tuckwell saw Canada being anexed to the United States if Mackenzie King's policies were followed. The spiritual [illegible] of Mr. King was evidently not in Canada, he said, mentioning that during the late war Mr. King had annexed to the United States if recalled that Mr. King once said that any province with a Conservative administration would not get one five-cent piece from the Dominion government.

Mr. Roberts said Canada's war effort, compared with Australia's, was disgraceful. He told what Australia had done—80,000 fully armed, equipped and provisioned men have been sent to the Near East.

Edouard Branly Dies

PARIS (AP) — Edouard Branly, 95, French physicist, who preceded the late Guglielmo Marconi in experiments resulting in the invention of the wireless telegraph and radio, died yesterday in his Paris home. In latter years, when nations turned on their radio propaganda war, Branly refused to have a radio in his home. "To think that I had something to do with its invention!" he exclaimed.

Says Total War Will Destroy All

People are being misled by leaders who find a war economy necessary to the continued operation of the profit system, Kenneth McAllister, C.C.F. candidate, declared in his closing address of the election campaign at 27 Boyd Street, Saturday night, where he summed up the party's stand.

"Peace will not come by accident, nor will it come when two nations try to police the world," he said. "Group discipline, self discipline, collective security and honest, unselfish justice should appeal to Christian, humanitarian and Socialist alike.

"Certainly the price we would have to pay to demonstrate social justice at home as a basis for an appeal to the German people to co-operate in world reconstruction is demonstrably less than the price in human lives, destruction and the loss of civilization which is the certain end of total war, now advocated to destroy Hitler. It is true that a total war will destroy Hitler. It will also destroy both the Germans and the British and the French. Do we love the old military method so much that we refuse to consider any other possibility?"

CHALLENGE TO YOUNG

Mr. McAllister said it was up to the young people of the world to face the challenge of economic reconstruction.

Present leaders knew only destruction as the way to keep the profit system going. Their answer to plentiful production was the destruction of surpluses. They had the same answer to the problem of imperial rivalry and international conflict.

The candidate said the C.C.F. believed the human race was being tested for intelligence, tested whether it could operate the shiny new tool that science had produced.

"Can we sit at the control board of a machine that is powered with millions of electric, combustion and steam horsepower and produce security and happiness? Or are we going to let the mentally undeveloped the childish old men, hardly able to drive a horse and buggy, retain control of this powerful machine? Because if we are, if we persist in letting them play with this tremendous new power than I can assure you that you are in for some pretty gruesome times," he said.

"SUPER SUPERMEN

In the international realm he said a group of High School students could have made the League of Nations work better than the "super supermen like Zaharof, Randolph Hearst and Lord Rothermere."

Mr. McAllister said it would require the individual efforts of millions to make democracy a reality. It would not come about by accident.

"I challenge you to take the step while it can be done without bloodshed, while there is still a possible democratic method. If it is not done while these tools are available it way well not come at all, or it may only come with very, very unpleasant methods."

The candidate said the C.C.F. party was a movement of those who wanted change for the better. They realized that an enormous job of planning the country's economic system lay ahead. No government department today had full information about the productive capacity and requirements of the various industries.

HOUSING NEEDS

Mr. McAllister touched briefly on the subject of housing, declaring that the claim of a government candidate that $22,000,000 had been spent under the Housing Act in B.C. was an overstatement. Up to the end of 1938 only $27,678,000 was spent throughout Canada, he said. The average loans were around $5,900 while the real need of the country was for the cheaper class of homes.

Ronald Grantham, the party candidate, in Nanaimo, spoke in Mr. McAllister's support and the two of them alternated at another meeting at Lake Hill Community Hall.

He said the aim of the C.C.F. was to make people think. They had been carrying on an educational campaign and in this had made headway.

Real patritism, he said, was devotion to the welfare of the people. The Socialists had no other concern.

Mildred Osterhout, of Vancouver, said that since it was true that right always succeeded over might the C.C.F. were confident their program of social justice would eventually be adopted. Other speakers were John Smith, W. B. Caird and W. R. Ferry.

C.C.F. Seeking Age of Plenty

"Plan or perish! We must take constructive social action now and plan for abundance and a real democracy, or we will perish in Fascism and war," declared Ronald Grantham, C.C.F. candidate in Nanaimo, at his final rally at Lake Hill Saturday.

"The C.C.F. proposal is practical and urgent. We want to go forward to the great new age of plenty. It is a matter of high ideals and sound economics. We do not want to abolish capital, which is after all just machines and factories and other aids to produce goods and services. We demand that ownership of capital be restored to the people as a whole. We do not propose to take away private personal property such as houses, farms, cars and the other things we use as individuals. We say that only through Socialism can the people get the abundance of personal private property that can now be produced."

"We do not plan to regiment people. Capitalism does that. We want for every person an equal opportunity and an equal chance to develop his individuality. We are not opposed to religion. We aim to put Christian ethics into practice."

Mr. Grantham said there need be no dislocating crisis in changing to the new system. When an industry was socialized the same experts would in most cases continue to run it. The same workers would continue to work in it. The improved conditions would be noted in higher incomes, steady work, shorter hours, lower prices, and greater democracy in industry.

Kenneth McAllister, John Smith, R. M. McIntosh and Murray Bryce were the other speakers.

R. W. MAYHEW

TO THE ELECTORS:

"Canada has pledged herself to exert her utmost efforts to assist the British and French Empires to bring this war to an early and successful conclusion.

"Our war organization is running rapidly and efficiently. The King Government knows what is expected of our country. Its experience in the last six months has equipped it with all the knowledge essential to the production of maximum service, in every particular. It knows what to do, and how and when to do it.

"My earnest desire is to have from you, through the agency of the ballot, a personal mandate to take to Ottawa—an instruction to tell Mr. Mackenzie King and his colleagues that it is the wish of all the people of Greater Victoria that his government continue to regard the winning of the war as the paramount issue of these times.

"I would also like the citizens of Victoria, through their ballots, to express the view that, while first things must always come first, due regard must be had for the coming of peace and the problems that will inevitably be associated with it.

"In other words, a vote for me tomorrow will be interpreted by Ottawa, and by myself, as your command to 'CARRY ON'."
